Western Union And 18 Persons Facing Charges Of Conspiracy

U. S. Grand Jury in Chicago Returns
3 Indictments

RADIO INVOLVED

4 Chicagoans Accused of Illegal Broadcasting
Of Race News

Chicago—(P)—A federal grand jury investigating use of wire and radio services in dissemination of horse racing information returned three indictments today charging the Western Union Telegraph company and 18 individuals with conspiracy to violate federal laws.

One indictment charged the Western Union company and 11 others had engaged in the dissemination of race news over interstate wires and had operated a lottery.

The second charged four Chicagoans with violation of the radio communications act, alleging they had used radio facilities for distributing race news. The third indictment charged three other persons with violating the lottery laws.

William J. Campbell, United States attorney, said the indictments resulted from investigation of race news services that developed following abandonment of the National News Service by M. L. Annenberg, wealthy publisher.

"Big-Time Racketeers"

Campbell said the principal agency for the recently developed facilities was the Continental Press Service, with headquarters at Cleveland, Ohio. He said "big-time racketeers" were behind the development.

Annenberg, who pleaded guilty to one count of an income tax evasion indictment, gave up his countrywide race news services last fall in the face of government indictments which alleged such services contributed to operation of a lottery.

Ten of those indicted were formally associated with Annenberg's Nationwide News. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, to whom the indictments were presented, issued bench warrants for all 18.

Campbell promised "further developments" by the grand jury before its scheduled dismissal May 4.

Lottery Prize Lists

Western Union Telegraph company was charged with "willfully conspiring" with 11 individuals to violate the lottery laws prohibiting the carrying of prize lists over state lines. The government interprets the transmission of pari-mutuel betting odds and prices paid on winning horses as lottery prize lists.

The 11 individuals named in the first indictment were:

James M. Ragen, Sr., Chicago, former general manager of Nationwide News Service, Inc., who was indicted in the Annenberg income tax and lottery cases last summer.

Arthur E. McBride, Cleveland, an old associate of Ragen and head of the Yellow and Green Taxicab companies in Cleveland.

Lionel C. Lenz, Cleveland, nephew of Monte Tennes, former general news bureau operator, and former technical superintendent of Nationwide. General News bureau was a race horse results distributing agency.

Others Indicted

Thomas F. Kelly, Cleveland, father-in-law of McBride and former branch manager of Nationwide at Baltimore, Md.

Thomas J. Ryan, alias Frank Walsh, New York city, formerly in charge of Consolidated News Service, an Annenberg affiliate in Detroit.

Heil, Goodland to Head State Ticket In GOP Primary

PROFESSOR DIES

Dr. Albert Augustus Trever, 65, whose retirement from Lawrence college faculty would have become effective in June, died last night. He was professor of ancient and European history at the college, joining the faculty 35 years ago.

Dr. A. A. Trever, 65, Professor at Lawrence, Is Dead

Member of College Faculty 35 Years; Funeral At Chapel Sunday

Dr. Albert Augustus Trever, 65, professor of ancient and European history at Lawrence college, died at 11:30 last night in Appleton after a few weeks' illness. He lived at 535 N. Drew street.

He joined the Lawrence faculty 35 years ago as professor of Greek and later became professor of his history.

Dr. Trever, who would have retired with the 1940 commencement in June, was born in the town of Chilton October 31, 1874. He entered Lawrence college in 1892 and received the degree of bachelor of arts in 1896. He then studied for three years at the Boston University School of Theology, where he remained three years and received the degree of S. T. B.

He next became an instructor in Biblical literature and history at De Pauw university, Greencastle, Ind., leaving in 1902 for a year's study as a Jacob Sleeper Fellow at the University of Halle and Berlin. Dr. Trever joined the Lawrence college faculty in 1903, where he has taught continuously except for leaves of absence.

He was awarded his degree of doctor of philosophy from University of Chicago in 1912. In addition to his 35 years of work at Lawrence, Dr. Trever taught at Cornell,

Defendant Admits Gun-Fight While He Was Stealing Gas

Waukon, Iowa—(P)—Carroll Berres, 24, of West Albia, Wis., admitted on the witness stand yesterday that he exchanged shots with "a man" while stealing gasoline at a filling station at Postville last Nov. 9.

Berres is charged with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of Elmer J. Lennon, Postville marshal, on that date.

The defendant testified he did not know that it was an officer who approached him as he was taking gasoline from a pump and ordered him to open the doors of his car. When Berres refused, he testified, the shooting began.

Berres said he had no intention of killing the man and that he did not know the officer had died until he was arrested several hours later after a chase.

Miss Margaret Pederson, Berres' sister, and Mrs. Irvin Breier, his aunt, both of Marinette, Wis., were defense character witnesses.

The state rested its case in mid-afternoon after Harold Gesell, identification expert, had spent two and half hours testifying concerning weapons found in Berres' car after his arrest.

Cabinet Members Keep Jobs at King's Request

Brussels—(P)—Premier Hubert Pierlot's cabinet decided today to remain in office at the request of King Leopold, to whom its resignation had been presented.

"While the army is keeping vigilant watch on the frontier it is not the time to have a government crisis," the king wrote Pierlot after conferring with Paul Hymans, liberal party leader. Previously the king had accepted the formal tender.

A comparatively minor domestic issue—failure of the liberal party to support the government on an education measure—led to the cabinet's decision last night to resign.

Pierlot had said his government could not carry on unless it had the support of all three parties which formed its coalition—Catholics, liberals and socialists.

Madison—(P)—Governor Julius P. Heil today disclosed plans for a complete administration state ticket in this year's elections with himself and Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland heading the list of running mates.

The plans for entering a full slate in the Republican primary next September, basing its claim for support on the record of the Heil administration, were discussed yesterday at a conference between the governor and Goodland.

Heil said he and the lieutenant governor had agreed some time ago to make a joint campaign for reelection and Goodland, who proposed the idea of an administration slate, had assured him State Treasurer John M. Smith and Attorney General John E. Martin would be on the ticket.

Zimmerman Uncertain

The governor said that if Republican Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman decided not to run for the United States senate he also would be a candidate for reelection. The Republican strategy definitely eliminated Heil as a potential opponent of United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., in November.

Questioned about his plans, Zimmerman, who led the Dewey delegation in the presidential primary, said he would not make up his mind about senatorial aspirations until the Republican national convention selects a presidential nominee.

"If left to my own inclinations I will be a candidate for reelection as secretary of state," he said, but he indicated he might change his mind if Thomas E. Dewey is the Republican candidate for president.

Zimmerman said if he seeks another term he would go largely on the basis of his own record in office. Treasurer Smith said he would run on the Heil ticket. Martin could not be reached.

While the governor previously had hinted he might seek the senatorship if the people wanted him, he said today he did not feel his work as chief executive of the state was finished.

"I cannot neglect the work I have started," he said.

The governor had only a brief comment to make on a movement

Saposs Assailed At House Quiz

Witness Accuses Labor Board Adviser of 'Invitation to Sabotage'

Washington—(P)—David Saposs, labor board economic adviser, was assailed by a former fellow worker today of having lectured trial examiners in words which his accuser said "were nothing but an open invitation to sabotage every American conception of justice and fair play."

The testimony, before the Smith committee in its special house investigation of the labor board, was by Mapes Davidson, who resigned last month as a trial examiner because, he said, the board fostered communists and "kunder radicals."

Davidson testified Saposs had told a group of trial examiners at a meeting here early in March how to build up a record against employers in cases where no direct evidence of worker domination existed.

"Dr. Saposs' words were nothing but an open invitation to sabotage every American conception of justice and fair play," the heavy-set, well-dressed witness declared.

Davidson was the first witness before the committee as it resumed public hearings for the first time in almost two months.

Dozen Spectators Wounded As Gunman Fights Police in Iowa Before Slaying Himself

Burlington, Iowa—(P)—More than 1,000 curious spectators risked their lives to watch an apparently deranged gunman "shoot it out" with a score of officers—and then missed the grand finale.

In the solitude of his second-floor room, the gunman killed himself after machine-gun bullets ripped away part of the shotgun with which he held off police for two hours yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Harry Hunt identified the gunman as Henry Reeb, 36, unmarried and unemployed.

The wild exchange of gunfire from a shotgun, machine guns and revolvers resulted, the sheriff said, when Reeb resisted officers who sought to serve an insanity warrant on him at the request of relatives.

When the sound of bullets whizzing through a street in the heart of the downtown district ended, at least a dozen spectators were wounded, several seriously. All are expected to recover.

As hot lead whined across the intersection, curious spectators began to gather in doorways and other vantage points to watch the battle.

Law enforcement officers from the surrounding territory were called

NOT V.P. CANDIDATE

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (above), Montana Democrat, would not accept the Democratic nomination for the vice presidency, his friends have announced at Washington. There had been speculation at the capital that he might be named as President Roosevelt's running mate on a third term ticket.

Wheeler Not Candidate for Second Place

Friends Assert He Won't Run on Ticket
With Roosevelt

Washington—(P)—A definite statement by friends of Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) that he would not accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination put a check today on capital speculation over a possible Roosevelt-Wheeler ticket.

Wheeler himself has said repeatedly that he was not available for second place, but recent callers at his office have led some Democrats to believe he was being sounded out for the vice presidency on a third term ballot.

Wheeler has an invitation to see President Roosevelt on the latter's return to Washington. The Montana senator, who was the late Robert LaFollette's running mate on a third party ticket in 1924, is expected to seek the Democratic presidential nomination if Mr. Roosevelt does not run.

Thomas Wanta Post

But another western senator was more receptive to vice presidential discussion. Senator Thomas of Utah said he would "love to run with the president and battle for his cause in the west."

While Democratic speculation continued to center on Mr. Roosevelt's intentions, a new Republican presidential possibility—Governor Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania—was ready to strike, what some parties pre-convention campaign.

James, elected for a four-year term in 1938, will address the Indiana Republican Editorial association at Indianapolis tonight. It will be

Trade Practice Codes Facing Test in Court

Milwaukee—(P)—Circuit Judge Gustave G. Gehrz began hearing today joint trial of two suits expected to test the constitutionality of the state trade practice code for the barbering industry.

The trade practice division of the department of agriculture is seeking court orders to restrain two Milwaukee barbers from cutting hair for less than the 50-cent minimum provided by the code.

The defendant barbers are William C. Fritz and Edgar Neveau.

Allies Turn Back German Spearhead at One Point But Retreat at Another

'We Lost First Trick,' British Officials Admit in London

DRIVE CONTINUES

Only Advance Guard Involved in Repulse,
Report Says

London—(P)—A war office communiqué said today that allied troops were heavily engaged south of Dombas, key Norwegian railway point, by "strong enemy forces" and were being compelled to make "limited withdrawals."

The communiqué said: "Allied troops in southern Norway have been heavily engaged south of Dombas by strong enemy forces supported by medium artillery, armored fighting vehicles and low-flying aircraft."

"In the area north of Steinkjer there has been no engagement but patrols have been active."

"There is nothing to report from the Narvik area."

London—(P)—"We lost the first trick," London military sources acknowledged today, commenting on reports of British reverses in Norway.

The invading Germans "have the best of it" in the air, these sources declared, saying that Germany has "five, possibly six, air bases in Norway."

Action at Steinkjer, which forced British to retreat six miles northward.

42 Million More Asked for Army

Reduction in Budget Offered by President Dwin-
dles to $116,636,346

Washington—(P)—As congressional savings in the president's budget dwindled to $116,636,346, the war department asked the senate today to boost the army's 1941 funds about $42,000,000 above the $784,999,094 voted by the house.

Yesterday the senate cleared the way for $150,000,000 in future river and harbor spending by approving, 40 to 29, an authorization of that amount.

It then voted, 43 to 14, to add $25,000,000 to the $225,000,000 CCC fund recommended by its appropriations committee.

The house had approved a $280,000,000 CCC appropriation, and Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) contended that unless that sum were provided 156 camps would be closed and 30,000 enrollees would be thrown out of work.

He was supported by Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.).

The CCC allotment is contained in the $1,023,054,680 labor-security bill, which Democratic Leader Barkley said would be approved before the weekend recess begins tonight.

Another billion-dollar measure, the farm bill, awaited house reconsideration following the break-up of a conference committee appointed to adjust house-senate differences over the measure.

The committee yesterday returned to the house for a separate vote senate amendments adding $212,000,000 for parity payments, $68,000,000 for surplus commodity disposal and $50,000,000 for farm tenancy loans.

2 Seattle Couples Start 10,000-Mile Voyage to Alaska

Chicago—(P)—Two Seattle couples headed north on Lake Michigan today on the first lap of a 10,000 mile all-water journey to Alaska aboard the Diesel powered yacht, Nellwood.

Aboard when the yacht left Chicago yesterday were the owner, Gilbert W. Skinner, his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnston, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dretzner, the latter couple from Chicago, and a crew of 12.

Friendly Relations With Japs and Reds, London Aim

London—(P)—Great Britain is counting on friendly relations with Russia and Japan as well as increased fleet activity in the Pacific to check the Vladivostok crack in the allied blockade of Germany.

Informed sources today said better relations with Japan were being sought and conciliatory gestures made toward the Soviet Union in an about-face from the bitter hostility existing during the Russian-Finnish war.

Britain and Japan were reported nearer an agreement on the disposal of Chinese government - claimed silver which is held in the British and French concessions at Tientsin, scene of British-Japanese tension for 10 months. The British also are endeavoring to maneuver their Pacific blockade ships in order not to offend Japanese feelings.

In renewing British-Russian trade pact overtures, Britain sought assurance that Russian imports would not be trans-shipped to Germany and that only a minimum of Russia's own products would be sold the reich.

May Out-Bid Nazis

The Russians were said to have agreed to the first stipulation but to insist that their nation's internal economy requires normal dealings with Germany in Russian products. The British, however, may try to cut the ground from this stand by out-bidding Germany for Russian goods.

Importance to Britain of plugging the Vladivostok blockade gap was emphasized by figures given out by the ministry of economic warfare saying 1,000 tons of various goods are shipped daily from Vladivostok to Germany by way of the Trans-Siberian railway.

The spokesman said the ministry was interested in Tokyo reports that approximately 70,000 metric tons of copper had been shipped from the United States to Russia since the war began, compared with an average of 6,000 tons a year previously.

The United States shipped Russia no tin or rubber in 1938, but in the first six months of the war sent 6,000 tons of tin and 2,000 tons of rubber, these figures indicated.

Russians in London said the large imports were explained partly by the fact it was difficult or impossible to get these materials from British sources in wartime. The Finnish campaign also created a drain on Russian supplies.

These quarters said control of Russian exports was possible because of the state industrial monopoly and because Russia's domestic program calls for greater imports of such supplies as rubber, which the U. S. S. R. lacks.

See Pay-Hour Vote
In House Despite
Roosevelt's Plea

Washington—(P)—Test votes on parliamentary questions strengthened indications today that the house would approve amendments to the wage-hour law despite President Roosevelt's advice to wait a year.

Just how far these revisions would go was a riddle remaining to be answered when the roll is called next week. The president spoke out specifically against the Barden amendments, most far-reaching of those under consideration.

While the house was arguing this issue, the Smith committee resumed its inquiry into another field of labor legislation—the Wagner act and the national labor board. The decision to renew public hearings was interpreted generally as an attempt to whip up sentiment for sweeping changes in the warner act, which may come before the house within two weeks.

Roosevelt Letter

The house voted yesterday to take up all wage-hour amendments before it learned of a letter from President Roosevelt to an unidentified friend saying that it is too early to know whether changes are needed in the law.

"Farm labor is not affected by the act," the president wrote. "In view of all the circumstances, I think it would be a great mistake to adopt the Barden amendments. By another year, we shall know a great deal more about the subject."

Chairman Norton (D-N. J.) of the house labor committee, who will offer the letter formally during the expected rough-and-tumble debate, interpreted it as voicing opposition to any revisions at this time.

Proponents of revision defeated, first by the narrow margin of 189 to 185 and later by votes of 167 to 92 and 233 to 141, three attempts to prevent the house from considering any wage-hour amendments this year.

Warns Fishermen and Campers Against Fires

Superior—(P)—Alarmed by a series of 10 forest fires in Douglas county this week, Chief Ranger John Hanson of the Brule forestry station warned fishermen and campers today to be especially careful to extinguish campfires and to snuff out cigarettes before discarding them.

Hanson said the woods were tinder dry because of the lack of rain. He addressed his warning to the large numbers of fishermen expected to be on hand in Douglas, Bayfield, Ashland and Iron counties Wednesday for the opening of the trout season.

Both Sides Bring Ar- tillery Into Use Near Border

NEW AIR FIGHTS

Crack French Troops Arrive to Aid British
At Trondheim

Berlin—(P)—Official Germany announced unexpectedly tonight that a political "declaration of the reich's government" would be announced by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and broadcast over the nation and to the world at 2:30 p. m. (6:30 a. m. C. S. T. tomorrow.)

The diplomatic corps and the foreign press were asked to be present at the reich's chancellery for the proclamation.

The only hint of its contents was in a communique which said it would pertain to the "political situation."

Foreign observers immediately speculated on the possibility of a weekend "surprise."

Foreign correspondents were asked to be at the chancellery at 1:45 p. m., and the fact that a nationwide broadcast was arranged for the proclamation indicated it will be of more than ordinary importance.

The development came at the end of a day which found Norwegian military news from German sources rather scarce, aside from general mention of German air force activities.

Stockholm—(P)—Reports reaching Sweden newspapers today late indicated the allied and Norwegian forces on the front below Trondheim have inflicted considerable losses on German advance units, forcing them back to a point five miles south of Roros.

The allied troops, coming down the Glomma valley from their concentration points at Storen, brought light artillery into action.

German units were reported digging in the Osterdalen (valley) some 18 to 15 miles below Roros, after retreating from that city.

Artillery had come into play by late afternoon on both sides, and the cannonading could be heard from the Swedish frontier, some 20 miles from the scene of the fighting.

Nazi Plane Shot Down

There was evidence, also, that the allies had received new aerial equipment. German air activity in the Trondheim sector fell off considerably. There were reports of minor air battles in several places between British fighter planes and German bombers.

One German plane was reported shot down after a fight with three British planes over the Swedish frontier.

The British also were said to have curbed German air activity at their Namsos landing point, above Trondheim, by installing anti-aircraft batteries.

Roros, from which the Germans retired when the allies moved down from Storen, is 70 miles southeast of Trondheim.

In the Gudbrandsdalen valley to the west, another flying Nazi column appeared to have bogged down at Ringebu, some 160 miles south of Trondheim.

French Troops Arrive

The British position around Trondheim itself, meanwhile, was reported improved by the arrival of crack French troops, including foreign legionnaires and alpine soldiers.

The Germans continued, however, to pour a steady stream of reinforcements into Trondheim by air transport, each capable of carrying 30 men. There also were reports that a German ship had managed to evade the British blockade and enter Trondheim fjord with supplies.

The German situation at the Arctic port of Narvik was said to be becoming more precarious. Some sources estimated that the Nazi force there, carrying on from mountain positions around the town with the aid of munitions flown in by plane, now number less than 500 men.

In general the fighting throughout Norway appeared to be between snags, maneuvering swiftly for position. All reports agreed, however, that the German detachments, regardless of their size, were armed to a highly effective degree with automatic weapons.

Fails to Avert Holdup
By Lecturing Robber

Milwaukee—(P)—Alvin Retzer lectured a holdup man on the error of his ways to no avail last night, the robber insisting on making off with $140 from Retzer's food market.

Slayer Escapes After Shooting Pennsylvania Girl Killed While at Work on High School Studies

Abington, Pa.—(P)—A 16-year-old Glenside, Pa., boy admitted today, Assistant District Attorney David E. Goshens said, that he shot and killed Edith Snyder, 16, as she sat in her living room last night studying high school lessons.

The attractive, chestnut-haired girl arose with a scream as a bullet tore through the window and pierced her heart. She took a few steps, then fell dead in the arms of her 17-year-old brother, Edwin, who had been reclining on a divan across the room.

Her mysterious assailant ran to a curb, jumped into an automobile and sped away.

Scalise Is Accused of Conspiracy, Extortion

New York—(P)—George Scalise, former convict president of the Building Service Employees International union, (A. F. of L.) was named today in a 53-count indictment charging conspiracy and extortion.

The indictment lists alleged extortions totalling $97,150, with the victims including operators of hotels and rooming houses in New York as well as members of the union.

The Dretzners will leave the yacht at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., where the craft will be cleaned in drydock and renamed Leonora.

The yacht will follow the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river route to the Atlantic, enter the Pacific through the Panama canal and then continue to Sand point in the Aleutian Islands. The trip was expected to take two months, with stops planned at New York, Miami, San Francisco and Seattle.

Roosevelt to Return
Sunday to Washington

Warm Springs, Ga.—(P)—President Roosevelt announced at a press conference today he would be back in Washington Sunday morning but said all the real news already had appeared in the morning papers.

The papers told of the endorsement of a third term by the Georgia State Democratic committee, but the president neatly dodged a request for comment, declaring all he knew about the action was what he had read in the Atlanta Constitution.

Habeas Corpus Action
Ends Slaying Charge

Los Angeles—(P)—Through habeas corpus action, Brydon Stockdale has won exoneration in the death-plunge of Miss Pearl Wessel, 40, formerly of St. Louis, down a Hollywood hillside three weeks ago.

Stockdale and Lesley Williams, 33, were arrested on murder charges. Williams will go to trial later.

Superior Judge Frank Swain held that preliminary hearing testimony did not show Stockdale to be in any way responsible for the death of Miss Wessel, who met men in a cocktail bar and accompanied them to a lookout point in the hills.

Defense Lawyer Collapses
During Trial; Murder Case
Is Recessed Until Monday

Crawfordsville, Ind.—(P)—Sudden illness of a lawyer defending Thomas A. Boys, charged with the sex-slaying of an Attica farm girl, resulted today in a recess in the trial until Monday.

Boys' lawyers had completed questioning of their last witness, Dr. Robert J. Millis, Crawfordsville physician, when Attorney Forrest Wallace collapsed in Montgomery circuit court room.

Judge Edgar A. Rice immediately recessed the trial until 9 a. m. Monday, when the state will offer rebuttal witnesses.

Both Dr. Millis and Dr. Howard Kinnaman, also of Crawfordsville, who preceded him on the stand, testified Boys was insane.

The 28-year-old Attica greenskeeper is charged with assaulting and strangling 11-year-old Elizabeth DeBruicker and placing her body in a shallow grave last July 21.

The charge is first-degree murder. The physicians examined Boys last January when an insanity plea was entered.

Dr. Kinnaman, cross examined thoroughly by state's attorneys, said he had delved into history of the Boys family before reaching his opinion.

J. L. Boys, father of the accused man, testified his son was subject to fits of melancholy prior to the slaying.

The testimony of Boys' mother, begun yesterday, was completed this morning.

Munitions Sales To Norway Put on 'Cash-Carry' Basis

$10,000,000 Credit Canceled; Exports Up 51 Pct. Over Last Year

Washington—(AP)—American munitions sales to Norway went on a "cash and carry" basis today as presidential proclamations extended operations of the neutrality act to that embattled country.

The action also had the effect of canceling the $10,000,000 credit granted recently to Norway by the export-import bank.

President Roosevelt invoked the neutrality act in a series of three proclamations issued yesterday at Warm Springs, Ga. The documents did not mention the status of Denmark, which the Germans occupied simultaneously with the start of the Norwegian invasion.

As the conflict abroad brought this fresh adjustment of American foreign policy, the commerce department reported that the stimulus of war had sent American exports 51 per cent ahead of last year. During the first quarter of 1940, the report said, exports exceeded imports by $410,349,000—or almost half of the favorable trade balance of $859,000,000 recorded for all of 1939.

Major Export Gains

The most notable export gains were in airplanes, iron and steel products, other manufactured goods, nonferrous metals, lubricants, metal-working machinery, motor trucks and tractors and chemicals.

The total value of exports for the first quarter was placed at $1,088,773,000 as against $699,498,000 last year. Imports advanced 23 per cent to $658,424,000. The 1939 total for the period was $526,798,000.

The latest neutrality proclamations added Norway to the belligerent list which already included the British Empire, France, Germany and Poland.

One proclamation found a state of war to exist between Norway and the United States, and the other two found that the United States was not at war with Norway.

The war office said the British withdrawal was executed to escape flanking fire from three German destroyers in nearby Trondheim fjord.

The same sources said no reports of allied losses had been received yet, and that it was not known whether the expeditionary troops had support from artillery and anti-aircraft guns.

"We knew we would have a difficult time and certain of our forces probably are having difficulties, but don't think for a moment this is going to have a detrimental effect on the allied effort in Norway," one source declared.

The government is to keep a sense of proportion in situations such as this country is confronted with. You have got to take risks and accept them.

If Britain and France had waited any longer in bringing aid to Norway the entire nation might now be in German hands," he said.

A soldier in battle "naturally thinks he's having a hell of a time and naturally talks so," he said, adding that "this does not mean, however, that the rest of the force is in disorder."

Silent About Planes

The air ministry would neither confirm nor deny that British fighting planes were in Norway to protect the expeditionary forces.

A spokesman declared operations were in Norway to protect the expeditionary forces.

A spokesman declared operations were in a stage which made it inadvisable to disclose the nature of British action.

It was believed in London that Britain might be having difficulty in getting bases in the rugged Norwegian territory.

"We had to send out to Norway the troops immediately at hand," the same source said. "We had to use undeveloped ports and had just what they could carry with them."

Scour 3 Counties For Companion of Wounded Student

Milwaukee Youth Regains Consciousness but Mystery Remains

Sheboygan—(AP)—Authorities of three counties joined today in an effort to find a fellow cyclist believed to have been with Robert Weickhardt, 15-year-old Milwaukee High school student, shortly before the youth was found wounded in a roadside ditch near here last Monday.

The search stemmed from the report of A. H. Hadler, Thiensville postmaster, that he had seen two boys standing with bicycles near his post office about 1:30 p. m. Monday, three and a half hours before young Weickhardt was found.

The description of one of these boys fits the wounded youth. The other was smaller and of lighter weight, Hadler said. They separated there, he told officers.

The Weickhardt boy regained consciousness yesterday and related he fell off his bicycle near Thiensville "and that's all I know."

Asked about two bullet wounds in his head, he said, "Have I got 'em?" His bicycle was located in Thiensville. An automobile stolen at Thiensville was found a quarter of a mile from the wounded boy.

Tests of a revolver lying 10 feet from him have shed no light on the mystery.

Milwaukee authorities reported locating a high school boy who said he had declined a suggestion by Weickhardt that they skip school Monday afternoon and ride to Bradford beach.

Chicago Pupils Will Eat 5 Tons of Smelt

Chicago—(AP)—Five tons of smelt shipped from Escanaba, Mich., are on the luncheon menu for 25,000 pupils in Chicago's 50 public high schools today.

For 10 cents, each diner will get as many of the silvery fish as he can eat.

F. O. Washington, lunchroom director, said that the main reason for the repast was to acquaint future housewives with "an economical food supply . . . produced in the Chicago area."

Latin American Trade a Question Bankers are Told

German Business With Countries Was Based Largely on Barter

French Lick, Ind.—(AP)—Belief that the United States will get Germany's export trade in Latin America is not well founded because Germany's trade was based almost entirely on barter, Grosvenor Jones of the commerce department told the bankers association for foreign trade today.

Jones, assistant director of the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, said American exporters were supplying some of the commodities Germany formerly sold but Central and South American countries "are likely to diminish the volume of purchases unless we can increase our imports from them or grant loans and credits on a larger scale."

Philip P. McGovern of the Manufacturers Trust company of New York said foreign exchange orders from Europe had diminished and from Paris and London "dried up completely" because of lack of lucrative yet safe investments.

Last night William S. Swingle of New York, vice president of the National Foreign Trade Council, and Wilbert Ward of the National City bank of New York both told the association in convention that the United States must accept trade responsibilities when the war ended.

"We must be prepared to shoulder our share of the world's problems or be submerged by them," said Swingle.

They were charged with conspiracy to carry from Cincinnati to Chicago "Lists of prizes awarded by means of a lottery scheme operated in Chicago" by Dobkin and various others.

The government charged the defendants arranged with one Peter C. Dreidame, Cincinnati, to provide racing information by telephone to Dobkin in a Chicago hotel, and that Dobkin distributed the information by a telephone network to Chicago bookmakers. Campbell said Dreidame had received service from the Continental Press Service with headquarters in Cleveland. Dreidame was not named as a defendant.

SWEDEN'S POSITION IS PRECARIOUS

Sweden moved into the center of German diplomatic attention as authorized Nazi sources expressed apprehension that the largest Scandinavian state is under pressure from Britain and France. It has been reported that the British blockade of Narvik (1) has prevented Germany from getting needed iron ore through the port. The other outlet for Sweden's iron ore area at Kiruna (2) is Lulea (3) at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia. Reports of German troop concentrations at northern ports have led to rumors of a drive on Stockholm (4). Distances to Stockholm are indicated on this Associated Press map. British forces were reported retreating after fighting with Nazis for control of Trondheim (5), key city to the fertile valleys of the south of Norway, around Oslo (6).

Study Shows Rah-Rah Days Are Over, Joe College Gone

Evanston, Ill.—(AP)—The rah-rah days are over—for Joe College is a creature of the past.

This was the conclusion today of educators at Northwestern university based on results of a questionnaire answered by 250 seniors graduating this June.

In Joe's place, they found a thoughtful young person who has learned the value of a dollar—by work.

Of the men questioned, 80 per cent earned at least part of their school expenses. Thirty per cent of the women did likewise, and 15 per cent of the entire group worked through without any financial assistance.

Sixty per cent of the men and 40 per cent of the women reported definite job prospects after graduation.

Nearly three-quarters of the men declared they expected to marry on salaries of $50 a week—or less—although less than half the women said they'd marry men in this income bracket.

As a career, however, matrimony rated high for the women. Sixteen per cent said they'd wed upon graduation and nearly all of them reported they expected to be married within five years.

Another indication the rah-rah days are a thing of the past came, the educators said, when the college graduates replied to an inquiry on allowances from home. The men received a median of $10 a month above room, board and tuition, while the women received a median of $20. Nearly one-fifth received no money whatever for incidentals.

The state's total 42,700 quota for May includes an increase in employment for other federal agencies of from 470 to 650.

Apportionment of the cut by districts, Anderson said, was based on elimination of projects, the need of project operation in relation to the whole state program and the relative need of individual employees.

Italy Remains Question Mark As Allies, Germans Maneuver For Major Battles in Norway

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(AP)—The struggle for possession of the strategic port-railhead of Trondheim, one of the key positions of the battle of Norway, has developed rapidly with two Nazi forces making a rather spectacular dash northward yesterday to reinforce the German troops which hold the disputed port.

The situation this morning appeared to be that the vanguard of the Nazi advance was some 85 miles from Trondheim. Meanwhile two allied columns continued to turn in on Trondheim from the north and the south and their position was reported improved by the arrival of seasoned French troops, including legionnaires.

Such operations among the towering mountains of Norway are bound to have a sensational tinge, and it is perhaps wise to emphasize that what has happened thus far is in the nature of preliminary maneuvering for position. Heavy fighting undoubtedly is in prospect, but there has been nothing approaching a major engagement thus far in the land operations.

The result of the battle of Norway likely will be to broaden the war. And there can be no more keenly alive to this fact, or more concerned, than Signor Mussolini, whose future relations with the warring nations continue to provide one of Europe's big question-marks.

Some observers believe a Nazi victory in Scandinavia would draw Hitler to Hitler's side immediately, but personally I doubt that. A Nazi defeat is much more likely to force the fascist leader to a quick decision.

I figure this on the basis that it is in Italy's interest to stay "non-belligerent" just as long as possible. Mussolini's gravest danger of being forced into the war is the probability of an upheaval on the Balkans, which he has set down as his sphere of influence.

It's almost certain that a German defeat in Norway would impel Herr Hitler to lash out at the Balkans in an effort to assure supplies to relieve the pressure of the allied blockade. That probably would draw Mussolini in, and perhaps against his axis partner, for the Italian chief has vowed to defend this important area.

Mussolini Cautious

It looks like a matter of plain horse-sense for Italy to stay out of the war at this juncture—and Mussolini is blessed with a lot of common sense. And there are several excellent reasons why he should tangle with the allies.

One lies in the relative strengths of the Italian navy and the combined allied naval forces. Mussolini's chief concern, of course, must be protection of his long shore-line.

The Italians have a rattling good navy. Naturally it is far smaller than the British, for that is the world's largest, but during the past three years Mussolini has steadily built up his fleet until the Italian and French navies are about on a par.

However, while the Italian fleet need take no back-wash from the French, the British are understood to have concentrated many of their finest ships in the Mediterranean along with the large fleet of their ally in those waters. This means that if Mussolini declared war against the Anglo-French brotherhood he immediately would feel the weight of this entire force, as well as having to deal with a land attack by the French.

Would Blockade Coast

The allies would blockade the Italian coast, cutting Italy off from vital sea-borne supplies if the Italian fleet came out to do battle. It would have to leave the defense of the coastal positions to the anti-aircraft, if Duce also has a powerful air-force, but all in all he would be more comfortable fighting with the allies than against them.

There are other reasons why Mussolini would prefer to remain out of the war for the time being. One is that, as Duce informed Germany a year ago, Italy won't reach the peak of its military preparedness before 1942.

Then Italy is far from self-sufficient in the way of resources and is still seriously handicapped by a shortage of raw materials, especially oil, iron and steel. An allied blockade wouldn't improve that situation any. And it certainly would be a sad blow to the fine trade which Italy is doing with the outside world.

The question of control of the Italian eyes at the moment. In this connection it is interesting to note that French Premier Reynaud the other day said France was seeking a "Mediterranean entente" with Italy and Spain. That might give hope of reconciliation.

Wiley Declares FBI Criticism Is 'Smearing Attack'

Wisconsin Senator Defends Bureau and Director Hoover

Washington—(AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said yesterday that most recent criticism of the federal bureau of investigation amounted to a "smearing attack from left wing quarters."

He told the senate that he believed this "attack" was part of a "tangled web of intrigue seeking to discredit" both the FBI and J. Edgar Hoover, its director. Wiley said the criticism to which he referred did not include various complaints about the bureau which recently have been voiced in congress.

Despite his exclusion of congressional criticism, however, Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.) referring to the arrest by the FBI in Detroit of persons involved in recruiting for the Spanish loyalist army, rose to remark:

"I would be the last to do anything that would prevent the apprehension of an enemy of my country but I do insist that the man who has authority to investigate crimes against the law should not them-selves violate the very law they have sworn to uphold." The Nebraskaan previously had criticized the way the FBI handled the Detroit arrests.

"Must Observe Law"

"The fact that a man has done great work in running criminals to earth is no defense for him if he violates the law himself," Norris said.

Wiley said many Americans believed agents of foreign governments might be engaged in espionage concerned with large allied war contracts placed in this country and declared that foreign agents would find it advantageous to discredit the FBI.

Another motive for "smearing," Wiley contended, was the FBI's investigation of communist activity which he said was being pressed "more effectively than ever before."

"Despite all efforts to besmirch the character of the FBI director on the basis of his record," Wiley said, "I am willing to believe his character and known integrity would prevent any misuse of his powers."

Norris said he was "as innocent as an unborn child" of any attempt to "smear" Hoover.

State Pastures Are Overstocked, Bulletin States

Must be Improved or Size of Herds Reduced for Economical Production

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Wisconsin farmers' pastures are now heavily overstocked, and they must be improved or the size of the herds and flocks on state farms must be reduced, a bulletin of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture said today.
Prepared by F. V. Burcalow and G. Bohstedt of the college staff, the bulletin pointed out that the farmers of the state now obtain more than 75 per cent of their annual income from the sale of dairy and other livestock products, and that economical production of both depends upon having an abundant supply of good pasture throughout the year.
Fully half of the farm lands of the Wisconsin are in pasture and the rest are in crops, it was reported. If some of the badly eroded cropland were converted into pasture, and some of the marginal pastures into woodlands, there would remain only about 10 million acres of pasture five millions of them wooded to support about 3,500,000 head of livestock.

Average Needs
"This falls far short of average needs and indicates that Wisconsin pastures now are heavily overstocked for their present carrying capacity," it was said.
"We must lighten the time our herds are well fed on pasture, Wisconsin dairymen are in competition with those of regions with longer grazing seasons. To meet this competition we must produce better pastures and make better use of our pasture grasses and legumes," the experts warned.
"As now managed, most permanent pastures do not produce sufficient pasture to carry more than one cow and one calf or one cow and one calf and one calf and one calf," the bulletin stated.
"This is a serious situation, and it is one which must be corrected. The only way to do this is by improving the pastures and by reducing the number of animals on the pastures. The improvement of pastures can be accomplished by the use of better seed, by the use of better fertilizers, and by the use of better management. The reduction of the number of animals on the pastures can be accomplished by the use of better management and by the use of better breeding stock."

Take Orders for Windbreak Trees

Farmers Must Make Application by April 30, County Agent Says

Coniferous trees for windbreak purposes will be available through his office again this year, County Agent J. F. Magnus announced today. These trees, obtained from the Wisconsin Conservation commission, have been transplanted for two years at the county detention camp northeast of Shiocton. Available varieties are Scotch pine, Norway pine, white pine and spruce.
Application for the trees must be placed at the county agent's office before April 30. The trees will be available the first part of May. The number of trees is limited, Magnus said.

Lunch will be served at the park and will be followed by special entertainment. Prizes will be awarded for the best 4-H club float and the best school float in the parade.
Free admission to the theater and free lunch are being given to teachers and leaders of 4-H clubs for the distribution, according to County Agent J. F. Magnus. Every teacher and 4-H club leader also is invited to be the guest of the junior chamber at the program. The afternoon program will be completed by 3 o'clock.

Students May Enter Egg, Poultry Contest

Essay contests directing attention to Wisconsin's poultry and egg industry and providing opportunities to win free trips to the state fair and other awards were launched in schools throughout the state this week as a cooperative effort of the Wisconsin Poultry Improvement association.
Open to students enrolled in grades from the seventh through high school, one contest is for boys and the other for girls. "How Quality Eggs are Produced in Wisconsin" is the subject assigned to boys. The girls will write on "What Consumers Should Demand in Buying Quality Eggs." The contest closes May 15.
Of the total area of Iceland, six-sevenths is unproductive, stated. All have been inspected by the state entomologist department, and every bundle will be tagged as proof that they have been inspected.
To cover the express, inspection and tagging, a small charge per hundred trees will be made. The trees must be used for windbreak purposes only.

Willkie May be Dark Horse for GOP Nomination

Utility Executive Being Looked Over Carefully By Political Leaders

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—An amazing amount of talk about a dark horse for the Republican nomination is being heard in Washington now—talk about Wendell Willkie, for instance, and this notwithstanding the fact that no political organization exists in his behalf.
But the members of the senate and house are themselves influential in the make-up of delegations to the national conventions. The fact that the merits of Willkie as a possible candidate are being discussed, sometimes favorably and sometimes adversely, indicates at this time a certain restlessness within the Republican party which it is too early to measure, but which may mean eventually the nominations of some dark horse for presidency.

The comment about Willkie usually starts out with a concession that he is an able campaigner, that he would make a colorful contests and that he really has the capacity to administer the responsibilities of the presidency. Then the discussion turns on whether a utility executive could be nominated or, if nominated, could be elected.
It is an interesting coincidence, but if, as now seems probable, Attorney General Jackson should be Mr. Roosevelt's choice for the Democratic nomination in the event that a third nomination for himself is declined, the presidential campaign might have two standard bearers who have served many years in the employ of the public utilities.

Jackson's Career
Mr. Jackson before coming to Washington was an attorney for one of the big utility corporations in western New York—a company in which the Morgans, for example, have a much larger percentage of the ownership than they have in the company of which Willkie is president. This might mean that, if the debate turned on the Public Utility Holding Company act, the country would have a first class discussion on the merits of that important piece of legislation whose passage, it is contended by many, has had more to do with preventing unemployment and delaying recovery than any other single measure passed by the new deal.

Mr. Willkie's skill as a debater plus his background on this question might well make the issue of the Public Utility Holding Company act a more important campaign than the type of smear campaign which has so often been associated with utility baiting. The country has heard very little thus far of the true story of how a $12,000,000,000 industry has been injured by government even after the abuses which existed in the financing of utilities in the "mad twenties" were eliminated by legislation under the Securities and Exchange act of 1934.

Lawrence

Wendell Willkie has never been a part of the financing orgy associated with the utilities in the '20's and is himself not a utility magnate for he has never been a rich man or an owner of any substantial holdings himself. His life has been largely that of a lawyer battling his way to eminence in the courts. One of the reasons why he has attracted so much attention is that he has not been willing to lie down and accept defeat for his company or his industry what he believes are confiscatory policies and unwarranted attacks.

No Political Backing
Until a few months ago, Willkie's availability as a candidate was not taken seriously. Today he is being looked over carefully by the political leaders of the country. He is a liberal who is as ready to fight for the civil liberties of an unjustly accused radical as he is to seek protection for the constitutional rights of a conservative. On foreign policy questions, Willkie is as anxious to keep America out of war as any man in America. He has seen war at first hand. In 1917 he enlisted a few days after America declared war and he was in France more than a year as a first lieutenant of field artillery. Being recommended for a captaincy just as the armistice came. Lawyer, soldier, business executive, public debater, student of history and government, he is one of the few men who have risen to national prominence in the political arena without political backing. If for any reason the campaign of Thomas E. Dewey is unsuccessful in lining up a majority of the delegates, it would be most natural for many of the Dewey delegates who are of the younger school of Republicanism, to drift toward Willkie. For he is 48 years old and can be classed with the progressive rather than the conservative groups in this country.

It is a strange thing that political leaders themselves are talking so much about Willkie's availability. It may be significant of a desire to put into the field someone whose capacity is acknowledged and whose intellectual honesty would appeal to the independent voters. Willkie has been much in demand by political organizations for public speaking but has delivered only a few addresses. He made the principal speech this week before the American Newspaper Publishers association in New York. Without much delegate support at present, Willkie as a dark horse may have to be reckoned with as convention time draws near.

ACTIVITIES BEGUN AT FISH HATCHERY

Fish Hatchery Near Weyauwega Plans to Increase Production

Weyauwega—In its second year of operation, the fish hatchery located at the Scoville place two miles east of Weyauwega on the road to Gills Landing, is already working on "bigger production" and with an eye to the future, of pike and pickerel fishing in the waters of the Wolf and other spots throughout central Wisconsin.

While the work of rescuing fingerlings has been carried on here by the state conservation department for a period of several years, it wasn't until 1939 that some preparations were made to construct a building and install facilities for a pike hatchery. Last year a battery of 30 jars was filled with spawn.

Pegler Suggests Congress Probe Activities of Unions

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—There have been so many congressional investigations, and so many of them have been ill-managed and exploited by political profiteers, that one hesitates to propose just one more. Nevertheless, there seems to be no other means of placing on record the true state of affairs in labor organizations and enabling the rank-and-file workers, both union members and non-members, to relate their experiences. The finances of the unions amount to some vast sum, so big and so badly managed that no authority can guess within millions of the total even for one year.

This money comes off the top of the earnings of the organized workers, much of it being exacted by extortion, through an authority amounting to a taxing power which has government compulsion behind it in some cases and government sanction or tolerance in others. Many workers, far from gaining by union membership, show that a net cash loss.

The present investigation of the labor relations board does not cover the field of union organization, administration and activity. It does not inquire into the scandalous unfitness of many powerful union officials or their right to their positions, and it avoids the question whether the unions have complied with the responsibilities that accompany their privileges.

Comparatively few Americans really know anything about union organization and conduct. Always, up to now, popular sentiment has favored unions, but I seriously doubt that the sentiment is as favorable today as it was in times past. Bad leadership, abuse of the picketing privilege or right, and intimidation of worse treatment of individual workers have caused a turn of feeling. Little individual cases of mistreatment, whether of the small employer or the individual employee, spread by word of mouth, and these many completely finished about a month ago.

The pike are captured in 16 fyke nets placed in the Wolf river, brought to the holding pond near the hatchery and kept under natural conditions until they are ready to spawn. Water in these holding ponds can be kept at any desired level by the use of pumps. The fertile spawn is placed in the jars and the eggs are hatched some weeks later, the length of time depending largely upon the temperature of the water. This natural holding pond, by the way, is the first of its kind in the state, if not in the entire country.

At the present time, river water alone is used largely to cool river water when it becomes too warm, but cold water this spring has kept all water at such a low temperature that hatching of the eggs has been retarded to some extent.

Pike operations started only within the last week, the first spawn being placed in the jars on April 10, and the first fry is expected about the first of May. The fry, because they are highly carnivorous, are planted almost at once in nearby waters either the Wolf river, Partidge lake, Butte des Morts, or Poygan.

Closing of pike operations for the year will occur in from three to four weeks. Then starts the rescue work of recovering picket fingerlings from the nearby swamps, planting them in nearby waters, or shipping them to points throughout the state. These operations close some time in July, and then the old, and angle irons, while the state hatchery's work will be finished until another spring rolls around.

destructive to the gains that have been made by the frontiersmen and developers of union organization. It need not be thought, either, merely because a few A. F. of L. unions are conspicuously evil in the present scene, that the C. I. O. would be excluded from such an inquiry. The C. I. O.'s most pressing trouble is communism, which in California, for instance, dominates the state organization, but its offenses against the rights of the rank and file will be found to run generally parallel to those which have corrupted the A. F. of L. groups.

Such an investigation would show the public, including the union membership, much that is not generally known about the powers of the unions, the abuse of those powers and the squandering and theft of money.

The recommendations, translated into legislation, might be no more drastic than some requirements for honest elections and honest handling of the money. That would mean a degree of government supervision, but not necessarily a labor front. But unless something of the kind is done soon the rank and file will revolt, and then the government's remedies devised in a hurry, amid excitement, might constitute a labor front.

PEANUTS AGAINST 975 MILLIONS

Public attention should not be distracted from the 975 million WPA fund requested by the President with the privilege of spending the same before the end of the year by any paper was blown at Mr. Dewey lest he smoke too many Perfectos, eat too many sandwiches or take too expensive a room at some hotel.

Back of the demand for 975 millions—a magnificent campaign fund—there is evidence, and excellent evidence, of the purpose to use it to drive the cattle votes into the polls and see that they make the right marks on the ballots.

To substantiate this statement it need only be said that there are about a million men in this country who have qualified for WPA work but who are not at work. They are being cared for by home relief agencies at a much less figure than if they were put on the payroll. But the safest way to get them to vote right is to have them on the payroll. If they get surly they may even vote Republican.

By getting the use of this tremendous sum of money and the right to spend it in eight months it is clear that the purpose exists to shift the load and spend the hundreds of millions, however recklessly, in order to get the thin piping voices to singing "Happy Days" even in a blizzard. We express nothing but the keenest regret that administration plans to put men to work and to return our country to normalcy have been practically a complete washout. All of us are likely to feel at times that we could do better with the human race if we had some divine powers. But those who think they have attained such powers only make of themselves disturbing menaces.

The methods employed by this administration in the respect mentioned are at war with all the experience of the human race for at least 200 known generations. And when that record will not be heeded by the leaders it is time for the people to take over.

In the meantime it was best for Mr. Dewey to drop to a ten-cent brand of cigarettes.

A WARNING TO AMBITIOUS AMERICAN BOYS

Mr. Cromwell has given notice of his approaching resignation as our minister to Canada.

His holding of that office, however, is a matter of great moment since the few months he held it establishes a record for him. He never stayed at any one thing so long.

But Mr. Cromwell has performed a patriotic and benevolent service. The President, who appoints diplomats and has a strong though perfectly constitutional hand over them, is very particular, extremely choosy, in regard to the personnel.

Whenever it is possible a diplomat must be a multi-millionaire who inherited what he has. If he has a wife who is richer than he so much the better. But even that is not enough. His wife's mother, who should have been divorced from her father, should also have another fortune, and her father, who should have his fourth or fifth wife by this time, should never have stooped down to marrying a commoner.

The same general description goes for the diplomat's antecedents.

Wealth alone is far from enough. The nouveau riche cannot come to the first table just because of bank accounts. There must be blue blood, a perfect abhorrence of making a living at the traditional manner of trade or the professions, but a sort of exalted study of philosophy and the ability to criticize anything from Diogenes through Socrates and in Plato. It doesn't make any difference whether the theorizing is as hollow as a stick of bamboo. That is sort of expected and may charm the multitude.

When the country store was the forum of frequent debates a man like our honorable minister to Canada sat all day around the big heater, chewed tobacco and spat its juice, and delivered many rolling sentences upon many rough topics even as the mustard and thistles choked his unattended crops.

The field of diplomacy is where our president has had his undisputed sway and the results afford us the best criterion of his uncontrolled influence in the government.

MEXICO BECOMES NEIGHBORLY AGAIN

Just recently Mexico added to the pile of insults it has hurled at this country and the derision with which it treats the government at Washington by taking over some chicle lands that were owned by Americans.

Adding studied insult to already studied injury Mexico says it took this property because those from whom the Americans purchased it did not have good title. The published records show that American companies bought these lands just 49 years ago when they were part of an utter wilderness, uninhabited and producing exactly nothing. They have been given value because of American energy, American intelligence, American work, hard, dangerous, toilsome labor under malarial conditions and that required the expenditure of great sums of money. Thus is produced a quantity of chicle, the basic constituent of chewing gum, and thus is entertained the Mexican rabble that lounged in the sun, glanced at an occasional bull fight, became sodden with alcohol and waited for the Americans to complete their jobs.

Whatever the intentions of the Administration we have an alleged diplomat down at Mexico by the name of Josephus Daniels, now past his 80th birthday and about as useful as Earle in Bulgaria, Cromwell in Canada and Bowers in Spain who fled the coop when the smell of gunpowder floated on the breeze.

We do not propose that America become surly with Mexico. We do not propose that it attack Mexico. But must it continue to buy Mexican silver at an artificially high price while the Mexicans pursue this sort of course?

Cardenas said that Mexico would know how to meet its obligations and its honor. He has the same notion that was quite prevalent among a list of ignorant Americans a few generations ago. They thought that nothing could be done to them if they didn't deny a debt and that they might live a hundred years without having to pay it so long as they freely granted its existence.

A "LOST" WANT AD

Where are those ugly crones who started this war?

The war wasn't started by Hitler or Stalin, Mussolini or Chamberlain, Daldier or King Haakon. The war was caused by munition makers, dubbed "merchants of death" by our suave politicians who seek a goat at the conclusion of war to make diversion for the people as they lick their wounds.

People are such simple propositions when they are looking for a goat. They won't look then at their statesmen who may have pompously edged them over to the field of battle. They insist that some creature must be created who secretly seduced them. Hence, munition makers.

And people are so simple that they have actually supported measures to have government operated munition factories just so their seducers cannot work upon them. France, in response to this silly campaign, took over munition factories. That makes a job for Frenchmen after the war is over. They will have to find another goat.

BIOFF AND OSLO

There was treachery at Oslo. And there was treachery at Chicago.

Someone seems to have sold out the government at Oslo. And someone sold out the government at Chicago.

After Bioff's sentence was affirmed by the appellate court there was not only trickery and treachery but it was smart and clever as rouged sin.

Bioff's lawyer saw to it that the defendant surrender himself for sentence. In no other way could he have saved the bondsmen who had guaranteed that Bioff would abide the court's decision.

Thereafter Bioff's story is a maze. He says he was told by his lawyer that he had in fact won in the appellate court and then the bailiff released him and he went free for 18 years.

Someone placed a nice word of American bank notes on the line, sold the people down the river. And that someone was getting a salary from the people and trusted by them.

After 18 years it is difficult, if not impossible, to follow the trail back. The crime itself wasn't so important. Bioff then was only a small time renter of street walkers.

It is worth while, however, to look at the case from every side for the same reason that a cautious man examines into the foundations of his home when he reads of the predatory work of termites.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

KEEP YOUR FRIENDSHIPS MENDED!

"Keep your fences mended,"
Grandad used to say.
Quarrels would be ended;
Cattle would not stray.
And the farm in beauty
Would reflect a duty
Done and put away.

"Keep your friendships mended!"
Keep them in repair!
Grandfather befriended
Neighbors everywhere.
With a smile he chided:
"Do not be divided!
Friendship lightens care!"

Opinions of Others

SUCH LANGUAGE!
In an editorial note at its masthead the Harvard Progressive—"Organ of the Harvard Student Union"—disclaims responsibility for opinions expressed by individual writers. That is doubtless discreet. One contribution to the periodical is an article by a writer who describes himself as "a conservative Christian anarchist." The credo of a conservative Christian anarchist is, apparently, as follows:

"I believe (intellectually and organically) that reality-value is infinitely manifold and inexhaustible. So also man, society and culture as part of the reality-value. It has empirical (sensory) and super-empirical aspects; rational and irrational; logical and non-logical; material and non-material. It is a veritable coincidentia and oppositum of Johannes Scotus Erigena and Nicolaus Cusanus."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

THIRD MARK REGISTERED

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—One of the most significant farm meetings in many months is scheduled for St. Paul tomorrow. Officially, its purpose is to spur congressional sentiment for the Jones-Bankhead Act lowering interest rates on loans from the farm credit administration. Henry Wallace expects to address about 12,000 farmers on this subject.

Behind this, however, is an increasing cleavage between what Wallace once described as the upper one-third farmer group for whom his agriculture department actually has done most of its work, and the two-thirds of underprivileged farmers who have been neglected. Wallace has been trying to switch more aid to the two-thirds, and at this St. Paul meeting he is giving his blessing to the National Farmers' union. This is an organization which is considered radical, if not dangerous, by the Grange and the Farm Bureau.

These two pillars of farm conservatism—or at least their executives—have split wide open with Wallace over lower interest rates for farmers. The issue remains a mystery; for this is about the first time farm leaders have shied away from the public feed trough. Ed O'Neal, head of the Farm Bureau, is vigorously opposing the Jones-Bankhead bill, which would keep farm interest rates permanently at 3 per cent, instead of being boosted automatically on July 16 to 5 and 6 per cent.

Norman Tabor, head of the Grange, is also opposed—some of his critics say because he is a candidate for secretary of agriculture if there is a Republican victory in November.

Result is a storm of protest inside both the Grange and the Farm Bureau, many of whose members say: "Why should we pay $5 a year to these fellows to work against our interests?" There also have been many threats of resignation, and it looks like an even greater split than ever between the upper one-third farm group and the lower two-thirds.

NO FARMER DEWEY?

Midwestern senators are telling about an incident which occurred after Dewey spoke in Minneapolis on his western tour. Shortly thereafter, Vandenberg spoke in twin-city St. Paul, and was visited by a group of farm leaders, who asked various questions. One was, "What do you think of the problem of the flax surplus?"

Vandenberg replied, "Flax surplus? What do you mean? We produce less than half of our requirement in flax, so how can there be a surplus problem?" "You're right, senator," the farmers answered. "We just wanted to see how much you knew about it. When Dewey was here, we asked him the same question, and he said, 'I regard the flax surplus as a very serious problem, and something should be done about it.'"

SOUTHERN GOP DELEGATES

Chairman Guy Gillette's announcement that his senate campaign fund investigating committee is quietly checking up on outlays in midwestern states is only part of the story. What he didn't reveal was that his committee also is examining GOP "woolings" of delegates in the south.

Inner political circles have buzzed for weeks with stories about brisk money-raising activity in this section. All the reports are similar on one point: that the Taft camp has the majority of the southern delegates. Dewey has some, but only a scattering.

Southern generalissimo of the Taft campaign is West Virginia's John Marshall, experienced delegate wangler who helped perform the same job for Hoover in 1928. Marshall's chief lieutenant is Perry Howard, Negro national committeeman from Mississippi, who also is an old hand at rounding up southern delegates. He was indicted some years ago on political charges, but acquitted.

Taft managers admit extensive holdings of southern delegates but insist they were secured on the up-and-up, without slush funds.

Note—Chief objects of the senate committee's scrutiny are Nebraska, where it is reported Dewey forces spent a large sum, and Wisconsin, where Carnegies are alleged to have dished out plenty.

BASS DRUM SHEARER

These are great days for William Baldwin Shearer, the man who boasts that he broke up the Geneva naval conference ten years ago, thereby exploding naval disarmament.

Shearer is still going around town, calling himself the "big bass drum," and the other evening he secured as his dance partner Mrs. Lewis Compton, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy. Mrs. Compton had been tipped off by her husband regarding Shearer, but she pretended not to know who he was.

Shearer seemed distressed. "But surely you know who I am," he said. "I'm William Shearer, the man who broke up the Geneva naval conference."

Mrs. Compton turned her pretty face to him, registering a Dumb Dora expression.

"Do you remember?" he persisted. "Why, my picture was on the front page of every paper in the country!"

"Oh," said Mrs. Compton innocently, "that explains it. You see, I only read the funnies."

CENSUS CHANGES CONGRESS

The new census is bound to cause some changes in congress. Some state will lose Congressmen, some will gain, all as a result of the new reapportionment law. Here is an advance forecast of the states which will win, and those which will lose Congressmen:

States gaining one new congressman: North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Texas, Tennessee, New Jersey, Kentucky, Missouri and California.

States losing one congressman: Michigan, Kansas and Louisiana.

States losing two congressmen: New York, Ohio and Illinois.

The house always balks at enacting reapportionment because members fear losing their seats. Chief credit for putting through this act belongs to North Carolina's quiet Representative Lindsay Warren.

ions expressed by individual writers. That is doubtless discreet. One contribution to the periodical is an article by a writer who describes himself as "a conservative Christian anarchist." The credo of a conservative Christian anarchist is, apparently, as follows:

"I believe (intellectually and organically) that reality-value is infinitely manifold and inexhaustible. So also man, society and culture as part of the reality-value. It has empirical (sensory) and super-empirical aspects; rational and irrational; logical and non-logical; material and non-material. It is a veritable coincidentia and oppositum of Johannes Scotus Erigena and Nicolaus Cusanus."

It is more than that. It is infinite in its manifoldness; this explains why we cannot completely know the reality. It means that "through logic and dialectics of our mind," we comprehend the rational and logical aspects of reality. Or does it? In any case, "the superempirical, super-logical and super-rational aspects of the reality we intuit through intuition, inspiration, mystical and charismatic experience granted to a few great mystical, religious, moral and artistic leaders and, through them to us." The author of "Finnegans Wake" should be a great help! But, it is painful to report, "The one-sidedly empiric-sensory mentality" of our culture is failing before our very eyes.

If that is all right by the Harvard Progressives, it is all right by us. But what the Department of English has to say about it is something everybody would like to know.—The New York Sun.

A "LOGICIAN" ANSWERS MR. WILLIAMS

Editor Post-Crescent—Mr. L. Williams, of Combined Locks, who suggests a "defender" of Bertrand Russell should take a few lessons in logic, might do well to become more acquainted with that science himself. Mr. Williams assumes that the proposition he and Russell's defender are debating is: "Resolved, that Russell's immoral theories should bar him from a public teaching post." In logic this fallacy is known as petitio principii, or begging the question. The true proposition is: "Resolved, that Russell's theories should bar him from a public teaching post." It is up to Mr. Williams to prove that these theories are immoral, not to take this for granted.

Mr. Williams looks with scorn on one who believes in neither God, cause, effect or the existence of an external world. Needless to say, Mr. Williams is again assuming something, that is, that the opposites of these viewpoints are true. Let him prove this. An agnostic is as religious as one who believes in God—the word religion means belief, not just a belief in God.

Mr. Williams quotes Russell's statement "there is little but prejudice and habit to be said for the view that there is a world at all" in such a manner as if the mere stating of it were sufficient refutation. Did Mr. Williams ever read the works of Bishop George Berkeley, David Hume, John Locke, Immanuel Kant and Rene Descartes? Common opinion is no guide to truth. The only criterion of truth is evidence. Mr. Williams says: "what if everyone followed Russell's example? figure out the mess that would be." Logically we can draw his argument thus: If a person is thinking of doing something, and foresees evil consequences if all acted as he is contemplating, he should forego his action. Suppose a person wishes to be a bachelor, he foresees the extinction of the human race if he so acts, and then feels himself forced to marry. Yet it is evident no harm proceeds from bachelorhood. It is the old categorical imperative of Immanuel Kant. I weep for the poor youth of New York city, who have to see Russell and be converted to his theories. They are as intelligent as adults, as Mr. Williams is, for the greatest human intelligence is reached in the man who can see things as they are, not as he wishes them to be.

"An education is supposed to influence his pupils," says Mr. Williams. Imagine the commotion in the middle ages when a teacher said the earth was round. This was contrary to the belief of the commoners. It was positively immoral. To the stake with him!

Mr. Russell was hired to teach mathematics and logic. He has done so without comment for years. Yet certain busybodies, who, as Mr. Russell said, "are much more concerned with sex than he is," proposed that he be refused to hire a clerk because the man is a Lutheran, a Catholic, or an atheist, as for the college to refuse a teacher on grounds other than ignorance of his subject. A doctor might have the belief that headache should be cured by decapitation, but if this doctor were the best abdominal surgeon in the world his lectures on the latter subject would be eagerly received.

Mr. Russell's books have been in college libraries for years. If the mentality of college youths is such that the mere personal appearance of a teacher could lead toward a stronger belief in his theories, they should be digging ditches, not classing themselves as students.

Here is another argument of Mr. Williams: Los Angeles is known as the city having the most people with the weirdest notions in the country. Mr. Russell comes from that city, therefore his notions are weird. What childish logic. Again, at least one illustrious Harvard graduate has a philosophy, logic and mathematics which do not appeal to a good many taxpayers. Mr. Russell is to lecture at Harvard, therefore, well, I can't even conceive of a conclusion, even an illogical one, yet Mr. Williams intends this as an argument.

Mr. Williams states, toward the end of his letter, that he has never studied logic. To anyone who had read up to this point the statement was unnecessary.

"Logician."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, April 25, 1930

Bob Mortimer, who represented Appleton High school in the Fox River Valley Oratorical contest at Marinette the previous afternoon, was awarded second place for his oration, "Ropes."

William O. Thiede, past president of the chamber of commerce, was awarded the chamber certificate of merit at the annual dinner meeting in the Crystal room of the Conway hotel the previous evening.

The best athletes and scholars of the rural school in Outagamie county had been brushing up on their sports and studies during the previous few weeks in preparation for the district and county achievement and athletic contests which were to be staged in Appleton soon.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, April 30, 1915

The virtual annihilation of 4,000 Germans on a bridge over the Ypre-lee river near Steenstraete was reported. German warships shelled Dunkirk. Nineteen shells fell in the city, killing and injuring 45 persons.

Mayor August Knappell received a letter that morning from the South China Commercial Director, Company, Canton, asking for the names of Appleton firms manufacturing goods which could be used in China.

WHITHER?

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—A strong leaning toward an open primary contest in the Republican state party this year is indicated in the first sample of the results of a poll of Republicans arranged by certain

Eighty district Republican leaders under the direction of Elmer Honkamp, district chairman. Of course, it may not be safe to attach too much meaning to the straw votes now being taken for various purposes in the state, but in the belief of many, Honkamp's poll, because of the manner in which it is being conducted, may be a significant straw in the wind.

The ballots ask the Republicans to indicate not only their own preferences, but an estimate of the probable appeal among rank and file Republican voters, of various potential candidates for governor and United States senator, and to furnish some hint of coming events at the May convention, it also asks for an expression on the question of an open or closed primary, which as previously indicated will be the No. 1 question at the May state convention.

CANDIDATES
Honkamp's ballot lists these suggested names for Republican senatorial candidates: Fred H. Clausen, Horicon manufacturer and lately a Vandenberg delegate, M. G. Eberlein, Shawano lawyer, and also recently a Vandenberg boomer, Robert K. Henry of Jefferson, former Democrat and 1938 Coalition leader, Governor Julius P. Heil, urged by many to seek the senate job over second term in the capitol, and Congressman Joshua L. Johns of the Eighth district.

(It is likely that the Eighth district poll effort was inspired by the desire of Johns' immediate political associates to determine his potential strength before committing themselves to his support at the convention.)

Honkamp is pretty well acquainted in Republican politics, so it may be significant that he has included in the senate eligibles Cyrus Phillips, Milwaukee manufacturer and son of the former governor, and Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman also.

GOVERNOR
Even more interesting is his list of men regarded as possible gubernatorial candidates, for it lists Dr. L. F. Gullickson, chairman of the state Republican organization, besides Henry, Heil, and Congressman Johns.

The fact that Heil is listed under both jobs fits in nicely with the abundant rumors that strong and influential Republicans are still trying to persuade the governor that he ought to run for the senate. The mention of Henry, of course, has no mystery, for everybody in Republican politics today knows that Henry is a passive candidate for the job.

Most intriguing is the fact that the poll carries the name of Gullickson, for as was recently pointed out, Gullickson denies vehemently whenever the subject is mentioned that he wants anything except a job as state Republican chief.

Yet some well-placed Republicans will tell you that if Gullickson, who apparently controls the party organization completely and effectively, can get organization support for his candidacy for governor, he will grab at the chance. The test may come between now and the date for the state convention. It is generally understood, moreover, that the doctor is one of those who has suggested to Heil the wisdom of trying for the senate.

It is argued, say Republicans, that Gullickson's Norwegian ancestry would be an asset to the ticket among the heavy Scandinavian elements in Wisconsin this year. That

HEART DISEASE

A publication of the U. S. Dept. of Labor, Bureau Lab. Statistics, No. R-149 describes a study of 500 cases of heart disease in workmen examined by Dr. Cadis Phillips of the Massachusetts Industrial Accident Board. Dr. Phillips concluded from this study that the manual laborer who has heart disease but who for economic reasons must continue working, has a better life expectancy and also a much later advent of heart incapacity than has the "white collar" worker.

A man 32 years old, with aortic regurgitation and mitral stenosis (valvular disease ordinarily regarded as rendering the subject incapable of any degree of exertion) has completed successfully in fourteen Marathon races and always ran the full distance (26 to 54 miles), winning the South African Marathon elimination race in the British Empire Games in 1934. In recent years numerous cases of valvular disease associated with successful athletic activity have been reported.

There is a changing opinion on the subject of exercise in heart disease. Not only is a fair amount of daily exercise essential for the prevention of premature CVD (heart-artery wear-out) but an amount and kind of exercise prescribed by the physician to suit the reserve power in the individual case is now recognized as essential in the treatment of most cases of organic heart disease.

This applies in cases of angina pectoris and coronary occlusion as well as in cases of uncomplicated valvular trouble or "leakage."

There is a popular misapprehension regarding high blood pressure. Too many individuals who have discovered they have higher blood pressure than they consider "normal" imagine that any form of exercise or exertion is harmful or even dangerous. Except when there are complications which cause the physician to restrict the physical activity, regular daily exercise, work or play without associated emotional stress is the best possible remedy.

theory may soon be answered, however, if Heil definitely decides to run for governor again. There are other Norwegian Republicans to put on the ballot, for senator, for example, including one who has proved his ability to get votes. He is Harry Dahl of LaCrosse.

edy for such persons. For example ordinary housework, gardening, care of a lawn, a daily round of golf, three or four miles of oxygen on the hoof.

Remember, the fundamental cause of CVD, heart or artery disease, is anoxia, oxygen deficiency, and exercise increases the absorption of oxygen.

More slackers than workers succumb to heart disease.

My advice to any one with any form of heart or artery disease is this: When in doubt about work, play or exercise, consult a physician. If you are too stumpy to squander the price of professional advice, then have a go at it and see. The chances are that a reasonable amount of honest work, play or exercise every day will do your body and soul good.

"Of course we have no designs on Sweden," the German "spokesmen" said, and if that don't give the Swedes the big jitters nothing will. I look for an invasion any minute as soon as the nazis begin talking that way.

But if that wasn't enough to frighten Sweden, the spokesman added, "Just to illustrate how friendly we feel toward Sweden, I am revealing no secret when I say that Field Marshal Goerring regards Sweden as his second home." That ought to be fair warning.

Most people would feel easier having the nazi threaten 'em any time than tell 'em how friendly they felt toward 'em and how deeply sentimental they are about their future.

Stamp Plan Will Be Explained to City's Food Men

Relief Committee Invites Dealers to Meeting May 6

The federal government's food stamp plan for the distribution of surplus commodities will be explained to Appleton food dealers by the city council's relief committee at 7:30 Monday night, May 6, in city hall, according to F. A. W. Hammond, relief director.

Letters will be sent out inviting wholesale and retail grocers, meat dealers, fruit dealers, dairymen and bakers to attend the meeting.

The Appleton council has asked the federal government to install the system in Appleton. The stamp plan is a method of distributing surplus commodities to those receiving relief aids, replacing the present system under which commodities are shipped to the city and given directly to relief clients.

The system, is the federal government installs it here, will be made available to each person receiving public assistance including direct relief, WPA workers, and beneficiaries of old age, blind and mothers' pensions.

The relief committee and Hammond will outline the workings of the system to food dealers whose cooperation will be necessary if the plan is installed in Appleton.

Barden Amendments Seen as Attempt to Cripple Wage Law

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Neither political party would attempt to repeal outright the wage and hour act, which seeks to place a floor under the lowest paid employees and to protect decently-minded employers from wage-sweating competitors. The principle is one of the heritages of NRA and its social desirability has been affirmed in supreme court decisions.

No, this and many other pieces of social legislation won't be repealed outright, but they can be gutted by destructive amendments. That is what is being attempted this week against the wage-hour law, through the Barden amendments.

These are not amendments to improve the workability of the law but to exempt large groups of low-paid employees from its modest standards. It is being done under the guise of "helping the farmer." But farm labor is not under the act and the proposed amendments seek to exempt employees of packing houses and other establishments which process farm products. Why the packing house employer should be excused from paying a minimum of 30 cents an hour while the textile factory employer is held under the law is not clear. But that is the kind of inequality that is proposed by the Barden amendments.

A study of the Barden amendments made by the wage and hour administration shows estimates of the number of employees exempted under the act as it stands and under the proposed amendments. In dairy products, 22,000 employees are exempted but the Barden amendment would exempt 254,000. Exemptions in fruit and vegetable processing would be increased from 68,000 workers to 321,000 workers. Timber and lumber, not exempted now, would have 110,000 employees exempted. In all, the army of employees exempt from wage provisions, now numbering 256,000, would be increased to 1,183,000.

They would not have to be paid the minimum of 30 cents an hour which, for the 42-hour week permitted under the law means a wage of $12.60 a week at full time—$650 a year for the lucky man who has a full year's work. It is from that not very onerous requirement of paying the help $12.60 a week that groups of employers are seeking to escape by their intensive lobbying here for the Barden amendments.

Wallace Says They Wouldn't Help Farmer

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has cut the ground out from under the argument that these amendments are needed in the interest of the farmer. He takes note of the point that higher wages or shorter hours in creameries, canneries, packing plants, groceries or other concerns engaged in processing or marketing farm products would increase the spread between producer and consumer and lead to either lower prices to farmers or smaller sales.

In answer, Mr. Wallace says that changes in the ability of consumers to buy have much greater effect on farm prices than do marketing costs. Workers receiving 30 cents an hour or less spend almost half of their income for food and clothing. If their pay is cut, half of that must come out of expenditures for farm products.

These amendments have considerable support among southern Democrats and heavy pressure is being placed upon all members from rural districts to exempt processors of agricultural products. Because the industries seeking exemption include some of the poorest paid group of employees, the act is being attacked.

Dykstra Says Youth Must Save Democracy

Waukesha—Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, declared yesterday that if democracy is to continue, youth must lead the battle to save it.

Addressing Carroll college students at the annual honors day convocation, Dr. Dykstra said recent history had shown that the existence of democracy is dependent upon youth.

"The need of modern youth, he said, is proper leadership, plus education for all."

"As time goes on, we become less and less private persons as the public burden accruing to the individual increases," he continued. "As a consequence, education becomes more necessary—because it is essential not only to life but also the democratic way of life."

Selection of Discard Rests Upon Analysis

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Only about one-tenth of all the agonizing that goes on over the choice of a discard is justified. Almost invariably the problem is susceptible to the most clear cut analysis and can be decided without fuss or fuming. It is enough to reflect, "Well, if I have to guard such and such a suit, it simply means that I am placing the declarer with a card that would give him his crucial trick anyway. Keeping that suit would only be guarding against overtricks. I'll assume, therefore, that declarer does not hold that card. That will allow me to guard the other suit." This precise reasoning would have defeated today's hand.

West opened his fourth highest spade, and declarer allowed both the queen and king to hold. East then shifted to his top club, which declarer won, after which the entire club suit was run off. On the fourth and fifth clubs East let go hearts, which declarer won the proper discard. He then decided that he must hold on to his diamond stopper at all costs, thus preventing declarer from entering dummy with a heart honor and supposedly finishing the diamond queen through East for the cashing of three diamond tricks.

Nothing could have been more short sighted than East's analysis. The contract was three no trump, and it should have been a matter of indifference to East if the declarer was going to make three, whether he made as many as five. The vital point was that if declarer had the diamond ace, he could lay down his nine tricks, and the proper defense for East, therefore, was to play as though declarer did not have that crucial card. He should have recognized the possibility that his partner might have the heart queen insufficiently guarded, and consequently should have held on to his three hearts to the jack for dear life. Obviously, had he done so declarer could never have made more than eight tricks.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

"WHO IS CALLING?"
The busier the person and the less able he is to bear interruption, the more persistent the tuning of his telephone is sure to be, and the less possible it is for him to take all telephone calls personally. On the other hand, if one is not an over-busy person, and is therefore able to take every call without exception, there is no reason why whoever answers the telephone should ask, "Who is calling?" But since few business or professional people are able to be as extravagant as this with their time, it is correct as well as expedient that whoever answers the telephone shall ask the name.

Perhaps the fact that the question "Who is calling?" is as conventional as the salutation "Hello" will restore the peaceful harmony that a certain husband tells me is being threatened, all because his wife insists upon asking "Who is calling?" of every one whose voice she doesn't recognize. He feels that this question sounds like "middle-class curiosity" on her part and is making him appear to be a Mr. Henpecked—a point of view that sounds to me rather absurd.

"Spinster Party"
Dear Mrs. Post: How long before the wedding should the "spinster party" be given; who usually gives it and what kind of party is generally given?

Answer: I have never heard of the term "spinster party" and therefore can only suppose it corresponds to the bridegroom's "bachelorette party" and is just a good-bye

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

New colors in spring make-up make the glamour girl more photogenic.

Ever the cosmeticians are seeking new inspirations. One season they are taking the colors from the desert to match in lipsticks and eye make-up, another season they turn the tinted pages of a Godey book to make us fragile and dainty as a Dresden doll. This year, one salon sponsors the red of nature under the sun, as the key to make-up, which expresses youth and exuberance.

Working with delicate, light-measuring instruments this woman explored the entire range of the spectrum, matching lipstick shades to eyes, hair and skin coloring under the candid light of bright sun. She found a red which she feels brings new life to every type of beauty.

This red is also keyed to the billboards of the new spring and summer fashionable colors. It is the perfect complement of the new yellows, deep coffee browns and clear liquid blues and greens. And it accents smartly the classic black and white ensemble.

To harmonize with this red for lips and cheeks is a rich warm shade of liquid make-up film, and a specially mixed powder to give your skin a warmth and radiance.

With an odd blue eye-shadow and nail polish to match your lips you should glow with a new vividness.

Make-Up Is Dark
Two prominent salons have introduced new after-dark make-up which is much deeper in tone than that favored by day. Their theory is that artificial night light kills make-up color. It turns your lips pale when you want to look exotic! These very dark red lipsticks do make one's complexion look amazingly fair in contrast, and if you are tanned by the sun, it makes you look sultry—which by the way is the way you want to look now. One other thing in favor of these dark lips is that they are photogenic—they have the correct chromatic values for photography—in case you are THAT IMPORTANT to have your picture snapped at exclusive night spots! Most of us need not worry about that phase of the new make-up!

Not to be caught napping, one of the leading nail products firms mixed up a batch of nail polish in a dark orchard cherry to be worn on your fingertips when you wear the photogenic make-up. This shade also makes your hands seem pale and white and helpless in the night light, by contrast. So those of you who could be more of the dependent nature might vamp the man of your dreams with this new witchy make-up for romantic night hours!

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Dahlias are definitely warm weather plants. Wherever frostless nights are assured, dahlias can now be planted. Some gardeners insist on planting in late May and quite a few extend that date into June. However, where we can provide conditions under which the dahlia grows comfortably it is none too early to get them under way.

The secret of producing fine dahlias is keeping the plants pinched out, and maintaining a soft growth. This induces early flowering just as soon as the hottest weather has passed. Consequently, plants with an early start have developed fine root systems which encourage best bloom.

Best flowers are produced on plants resulting from green cuttings rooted in the greenhouse and set out from pots or from divisions of the old roots. Each dahlia division should consist of a tubelike part, on which a growing eye is apparent, together with a part of the stem from last year's growth. It is good practice to make the divisions after eyes have developed.

Planting is a very simple operation. The tubers or roots are laid on their side at the bottom of a generously dug hole alongside of a stout stake driven into the soil as a protector for the plant as it grows. The allowance of two feet under the soil for stake anchorage is none too much. After enriching, return the soil to a depth of about three or four inches and fill the hole gradually as the plant grows. After it is safely above the soil line, pinching to induce branching can be started.

To defrost your mechanical refrigerator quickly, turn the unit off, empty the ice cubes out of the trays, fill the trays with boiling water and replace trays in the Super-Freezer. You are able to defrost in about 25 to 35 minutes by using this method.

Rub stains caused by indelible pencils with denatured alcohol. After 5 minutes' soaking rinse in mild soap suds.

Mothers-in-Law Should Be Seen and Not Heard

BY DOROTHY DIX

Being a mother-in-law is the hardest job on earth next to being a daughter-in-law, but here are a few efficiency tips that will help her to make a success of it. Don't be a mother-in-law at all. Be a real mother to your daughter. Open your arms to the young woman and young man who come into your family and take them to your heart instead of giving them the cold shoulder. Make them feel that they are welcome instead of afflictions that are sent on you by some malign fate. Especially don't make some poor little girl feel that you look upon her as an artful and designing minx who has somehow managed to snare your helpless and innocent son into marrying her. Make your in-laws realize from the start that you are going to be friends with them, that you are not going to criticize them and that you are going to make the same sort of allowance for all their faults and weaknesses that you do for your own children's.

Dorothy Dix

Mary or John. No young couple wants a third party in their new home. They want to be by themselves, and that is natural and right. It is what you wanted yourself when you were a bride, so don't begrudge it to your in-laws.

A mother-in-law in a household is just as dangerous as a charge of dynamite under the doorstep. Occasionally she is harmless, but nine times out of ten she blows up and scatters everything to Kingdom Come. Divorce statistics show that the mother-in-law breaks up more homes than all other causes combined, so don't take a chance on wrecking your children's happiness.

If circumstances compel you to go to live with your in-laws, make it as easy on them as you can. Don't give them overdoes of your society. Don't be always underfoot. Don't make them drag you around with them wherever they go. If you have money, take long trips. Give your children and their husbands and wives a chance to have a little private conversation without your listening in.

Don't pick on your in-laws. The favorite in-door sport of a lot of mothers-in-law consists of vivisection of the poor, frail, faulty human beings their sons and daughters have married and pointing out their weakness to their wives and husbands. Inasmuch as your children are married, try to make them satisfied with the bargains they have made instead of fostering discontent in them. Try to "sell" them their husbands and wives by praising their good qualities and keeping mum about their bad ones.

Don't interfere. I know it is hard for an expert professional to sit up and watch a blundering amateur bungle the game. I know it is hard to stand by and watch the ignorant make mistakes from which you could save them. I know you feel that you have a right to a certain say-so in your children's homes. But the one sure way to make yourself hated is to be butting in.

Every young couple want to run their home in their own way, make

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Children often seem to be much smarter than their parents, for they will browbeat the latter into feeding them with a spoon or coaxing them into tasting a bite of this or that. The youngsters enjoy these theatricals at the dinner table, but adults are foolish to permit them. Children will never starve before a full platter. If they don't eat at one meal, ignore the fact. They'll surrender at the next.

CASE Q-147: Carolyn R., aged 3, is an only child.
"We are so worried over her poor appetite," her father confessed. "She doesn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. And if we didn't help her clear her plate or even feed her, I don't know how she'd ever stay alive."
"She is rather small and delicate, so she ought to eat a lot in order the grain beside her, and consume 60 per cent more grain.

How to Stimulate Appetite
At nursery schools the youngsters will eat without coaxing, whereas in their own homes they dawdle along till they browbeat their parents into making a circus of the event. Thus the child can have fun making them tease and coax, cajole and feed it with a spoon.

Some children of a nervous temperament may not relax enough to feel the full effect of hunger, especially at certain meals. Our oldest boy, for example, is usually quite relaxed after a night's sleep, and will eat a hearty breakfast of 3 or 4 eggs, cereal, milk, etc., though he may not eat much at one of the other daily meals.

Physical exercise is also one of the main factors for giving children a hearty appetite. If your youngsters sit around the house, reading or coloring pictures with crayons or paints, it doesn't consume nearly the energy which it would expend riding a tricycle or running up and down hills on the farm or in the park.

Encourage children to romp and play outdoors with other youngsters. But remember, too, that after violent running, it may require 30 minutes before the appetite fully shows itself. During violent exercise a greater proportion of our blood is in our arms and legs, so the stomach is not equipped to function effectively until rest restores equilibrium in our circulation.

Avoid Theatricals at the Table
The table is no place for theatricals. You are letting your child dominate you if you feed it and coax or implore it to eat. Place the food before the youngster. Maintain a happy but casual attitude. If it isn't hungry enough for meat and potatoes, then it isn't hungry enough for dessert. Be firm and tactful. Don't act like a neurotic.

If the child doesn't eat at one meal, it will later. Some children have been known to go on a modified hunger strike for three days, trying to force their parents into the old slavish role of feeding them or coaxing and bribing them to eat. But no child will starve itself, and will with food on its plate. Give it outdoor exercise; treat it casually, and let nature take its course.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover return postage. Enclose a three-cent stamp, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.)

to grow. But she just minces at her food. What can we do, Dr. Crane?"

DIAGNOSIS:
This is a chronic worry of many parents who have the idea that youngsters should always eat like harvest hands, not only at the usual three meals per day, but in between, as well.

Children vary in their appetites, depending on how much physical exercise they have had, how many lollipops or ice cream cones they have consumed just before meals and whether they are alone or dining with other youngsters.

An only child misses some of the positive suggestion of seeing other youngsters gobbling their food with great relish. Eating is often a social habit, as many of us adults well realize. If others eat, then we do likewise.

Indeed, a German psychologist named Bayer experimented with hens and found that after a hen had eaten her fill at a pile of grain, she would resume eating, if another hungry hen started pecking at

it. There are about a million other tips that I might give you about how to play the mother-in-law game, but if you will follow these, you will win out.

May Break Bad Habits by Changing Child's Routine

BY ANGELO PATRI

We often talk about the necessity of forming habits, but we say less about the stern necessity of breaking some of them. Every child forms an unfortunate habit or two and gives their mothers a hard time until they succeed in breaking them and forming better ones. Of course, the best way is to prevent the forming of a bad habit but who is as wise as all that?

When a child is found doing something he is not to do like smoking cigarettes, skipping classes, using bad words, running across the street, biting, refusing necessary food—one has to do the best he can with the child he has, and change his way of thinking. He had to think first, you know, before he did this thing that is wrong.

First, if you can possibly manage it, change the setting of action so the place and the people and the time and the things about him will not in themselves bring out the action. If a young crosser of a room, passes a table where there are cigarettes, every morning at breakfast time, and forms the habit of taking a couple, the first thing to do is to lift the cigarettes, move the table, and if possible, have him cross another room, and do some bit of work like bringing in the rolls or the paper and the milk, before he gets to breakfast. By breaking up the routine and changing the situation you give him a new set of activity stimulants. He will be more likely to forget those cigarettes.

He won't entirely forget them. He will think of them, but if you have told him that he is not to have them, impressed him with the notion that they are not for him, that you mean he is not to have them, he will go without them that day, and if you watch and keep on the alert, filling his mind with other ideas, in time he will forget the habit and take on the other one, non-smoking for him. It is not easy but neither is seeing him smoking, scolding him, worrying about him, punishing him, and in the end getting nowhere. Make a job of it and you will succeed.

When a baby makes a fuss every time his mother tries to give him cereal in the morning, fights and shuts his mouth and kicks, try having somebody else feed him, in another room, at another time, out of another dish. Stick to the new way for a time and he will, if he is not ill, take his breakfast.

If a child gets into the habit of staying alone the way from school

Step out smartly to meet a busy day... or stay at home looking dainty and cool, in Pattern 4384. Anne Adams has designed this dress in two useful versions. A yoke holds the bodice fullness trim and smooth, with gathers below the yoke in back and unclutched tucks in front. Patch pockets will lend extra style to the pantlined skirt. For the more tailored version, make a becoming collar that comes in two lengths and may contrast, and have the sleeves either short and tucked or full length. Then, for the softer style, cut a squared-V neckline, let the sleeves be in short, summer caps, and run ric-rac or crisp ruffling around the edges.

Pattern 4384 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 yards 35 inch fabric.

clothes of the little girl down the block had been destroyed by fire.

On he went until Bartell jumped up. "Your Honor, this only proves conclusively the warm, generous heart of Miss Toland, and it is not Miss Toland who needs defense. This is a contest of Timothy Toland's last will and testament. My worthy opponents are basing their contest upon the mental incompetency, avowed, of the deceased, by attempting to show he would not have left the property to one equally incompetent. So far the witness has not proven mental incompetency."

Major Toland stood up and ignoring the Judge, roared, "It proves she has a soft brain as well as a soft heart! She'll let her fellow with a hard luck story work her out of this money. Timothy knew that, and that is why he sent you, with your good looks, to destroy any Toland participation in his estate."

Above the Major's voice came the rambling sound of the gavel and the Judge's voice "Austin Toland, if you cannot restrain this witness I will call officers who can."

The Major was restrained. He was also dismissed.

Depositions of each member of the family were read, then Austin sighed wearily that he would "rest."

"Your Honor—" Bartell was again, his charm reflected in the faces of the jury, in the relaxation of the Judge—"I will, though it is not necessary, prove the efficiency of the young lady. I will call to the stand the persons she, of her own volition, has hired to carry out this project. And I will admit here that

BANANAS TAKE A BOW

When you want a snack between meals, a "hurry up" dessert or a gay touch for a salad—turn to bananas. Serve them as a vegetable, baked, broiled, or fried. Serve them as a fruit in salads and desserts. Or use them in baking—muffins, cake and pie.

Miss Schneider

There is a "best" way to use bananas in every condition, green, yellow or brown. Here's how you can judge them.

Tipped with green: The banana is partially ripe, just right to cook and serve with the main course as a vegetable.

All yellow: It is ready to eat raw or cook, fine for pies, cakes, puddings, muffins or breads.

Flecked with brown: The banana is fully ripe, in the best stage for eating raw. It is sweet, mellow, thoroughly digestible and just right for fruit cups, salads and desserts.

Everyone likes bananas and they are extra good for you, too, one of the most digestible of all fruits, one of the best foods for quick energy, rich in nourishment.

Ground Beef Patties With Baked Bananas
2 lbs. ground beef
Salt and pepper
1 small onion, grated
Bacon slices
4 bananas
1 lemon
1 egg

Season ground beef with salt and pepper, and grated onion. Moisten with slightly beaten egg and shape into cakes of the desired size. Wrap with bacon slices and fasten with toothpicks. Place in a hot skillet and brown on both sides, then cook at a lowered temperature until almost done. Choose bananas with a green tip. Peel and cut lengthwise, sprinkle with lemon juice, and lay in pan with partially cooked meat. Place in a low oven 300 degrees F. and bake until bananas are tender and the meat is done. Serve on a large platter garnished with parsley.

Banana Cream Pie
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1 egg yolk
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat sugar and salt together. Add 1 1/2 cups milk and egg yolk. Beat thoroughly. Add remaining milk and vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Cool. Top with banana slices.

My Neighbor Says—

Half an inch is deep enough to plant corn on heavy soil and the seed should not go under the surface more than an inch, even when the soil is light.

To change the flavor of foods, add chopped pimientos to cooked peas or green beans. Mix chopped green peppers and onions in egg omelets. Put a few diced sweet pickles in fish loaves.

To make a piquant crusty covering for meat loaf mix half a cup of brown sugar, three tablespoons of catsup, one teaspoon of nutmeg and one teaspoon of dry mustard and spread it over the loaf just before putting it in the oven. This amount will cover a two-pound loaf.

Spread slices of left-over cake with seeded fresh cherries mixed with diced pineapple. Let the combination chill for several hours. Then serve it plain—or topped with a few broken nuts.

LEAP BEFORE YOU LOOK

By Peggy O'More

Yesterday: It is Tom's birthday. Wondering why the farm is deserted, Tomi learns that everyone is in court where the Tolands are contesting the will. She arrives in town just as the Major goes on the stand.

Chapter 16
"Mental incompetency" hooted went up from the jury at the Major's statement that Tomi conducted a lemonade stand at the age of eleven. The bailiff rapped for order. The Judge rapped for order. Bartell's face went into his hands and Dotty's shoulders shook.

Bartell arose, his cheeks scarlet. "Your honor, the incident is completely irrelevant, except that it shows an inclination for business at an early age."

"Proceed with your witness, Mr. Toland, and kindly ask him to more pertinent testimony," ordered the Judge.

"Proceed, John," murmured Austin, wiping his glasses furiously, "and keep to incidents of later date."

"Very well," agreed the Major in

200 Gifts
Over 200 gifts, averaging 1 for every 20 persons, will be given during the four days. No gift will be worth less than 10 cents, the admission price for each session, and most of them will be worth much more. Two new gifts which came in today are 10 pounds of Gargoyles coffee, courtesy of the A B C Food market, and a case of Hamilton's Grade A sauerkraut.

More articles are coming in daily for the more than 100 bushel baskets of food which will be given away through the A B C market. Although there is not a shortage yet, tickets are moving fast, and women who plan to attend the school are advised to get them now.

Free cook books, valuable gifts, organ music by Mrs. Harold Ferron, swing music by Tom Temple's orchestra, expert cooking demonstrations and an amateur show — the cooking school is an event no woman wants to miss.

Tickets at 10 cents for each session are now on sale at Appleton at the A B C Super market, the Rio theater, Lutz Ice company, Wisconsin Michigan Power company, Hopfenberger Brothers, Inc., markets, Schaefer dairy, Badger Pantorium, Appleton Glass and Paint company, Riverside Greenhouse store, Elm Tree bakery, Johnson's Shoe Rebuilders, Buelow's Beauty shop, Goodman Jewelers, the Pettibone-Peabody company, the Appleton Post-Crescent business office, Gloudeamans and Gage company and Sears-Roebuck company.

Students to Hear Explorer in Talk Before Assembly

Jim Wilson, explorer and lecturer will address the Appleton High school lyceum Monday afternoon of "The World Keeps Turning." The globe-girdler visited countries some 15,000 miles away garnering information for his talk.

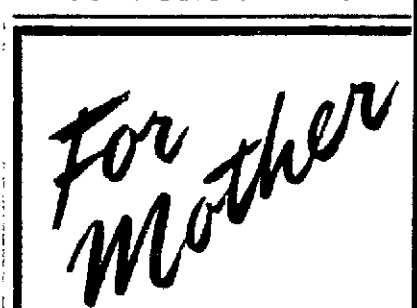

On his trip, Wilson found that from the trim officer at Gibraltar to the shrewd merchant in Cairo to the barefoot coffee-picker in Java to the sheep-farmer in Australia, Mr. Average Citizen wants more than anything to be left alone to mind his own business.

During some of the blackest hours of the war scare he found Italians joyously celebrating one of their favorite religious holidays with confetti, balloons and carousel rides. In Tunis sleepy-eyed shop-keepers played dominoes, never worrying whether the sunshine was French or Italian.

Arrest Man Wanted on Charge of Non-Support

Joseph McGowan, Kaukauna wanted here to face a non-support charge, has been taken into custody in Detroit, Mich., according to Sheriff John Lappen. McGowan has refused to waive extradition rights and proper steps will be taken to have the man returned here, the sheriff said.

Appleton's Hospital Facilities are Better Than in Most Cities

Appleton has more adequate hospital facilities than most cities in the country, according to a study of hospital service in the United States just made by the American Medical association.

Whereas the average city has a hospital bed for one in every 228 people, St. Elizabeth hospital, with 170 beds, has accommodations for one in every 148 of the city residents. These figures do not include federal or state institutions. In 1939, the survey shows, St. Elizabeth hospital cared for 4,011 patients, and was occupied, on the average, at 65 per cent of capacity.

The capacity of the nation's hospitals, states the association, has practically doubled since 1918. A correspondingly greater number of people seek admission to them each year. In 1939, they came at the rate of one every 3.2 seconds.

Neenah—Well-preserved timbers of what is believed to be the remnants of locks privately constructed in Neenah more than 100 years ago are shown above after having been uncovered by power shovels which are excavating for the basement for Kimberly-Clark corporation's new plant. The locks, according to Neenah's history, were built by Harvey Jones, early Neenah pioneer, at his own expense when the government refused to aid Neenah and gave Menasha financial assistance to build locks which are still in use. The government was informed, it is believed, by a $5,000 contribution from Harrison Reed, and that is believed to be the first instance of rivalry between Neenah and Menasha. The timbers were uncovered west of the Kimberly-Clark buildings, just north of the present canal.

Rural Electric Cooperatives are Praised for Work

Have Gone a Long Ways In Two Years, Convention Is Told

Madison—(AP)—Robert A. Nixon, member of the state public service commission, told members of the Wisconsin Rural Electric Cooperative association last night they were engaged in one of the greatest cooperative movements in this country.

Nixon spoke at a banquet session of the association's two day annual meeting, which opened yesterday with 150 delegates from 27 rural electric cooperatives present.

Nixon said the cooperative idea had its origin in the Scandinavian countries, but because of the war it was doubtful whether it would survive there.

"It is up to us to establish the tradition here in Wisconsin and in the country so that the cooperative movement can survive any crisis," he said.

Robert A. Merrill, chief of the state rural electrification division; C. A. Winder, director of REA's division of engineering and operations; R. M. Orchard, counsel for the state department of agriculture, and District Attorney Norris E. Maloney of Dane county were among other speakers.

"Don't let anyone say you're spending public money foolishly," Winder said. "You're merely borrowed public credit. And you're paying it back."

Merrill said that as a former employee of a private utility he "learned a lot of things."

"In two years time the cooperatives have gone more than half the way that the utilities have gone in 30 years," he asserted.

Arnold Gilberts, of New Auburn, said there was no question about farmers wanting electricity, but that low farm income was an obstacle.

North Western to Lay Heavier Rails

112-Pound Type Will be Used on Appleton-Neenah Stretch

The Lake Shore division of the Chicago and North Western railroad will lay five miles of new 112-pound steel rail between Appleton and Neenah this year, it has been announced.

The rails are now being delivered to the right-of-way in the two sections to be improved, but will not be laid until the mobile track-laying gang, which serves the whole North Western system, arrives, probably the latter part of June.

It has been estimated unofficially that the improvement program will cost a quarter-million dollars. ## Merchants Drill For Opening Game Against Kimberly

Neenah Nine Starts Fox Valley League Season Here May 12

Neenah—Despite the fact that this spring's weather isn't conducive to good baseball, Bill Handler's Neenah Merchants are drilling on the Washington park diamond four times a week in preparation for its opening Fox River Valley league game.

The Merchants will open its season on the home diamond, playing Kimberly Sunday afternoon, May 12.

The squad is practicing on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings as well as Saturday afternoons, and Manager Handler is trying to book an exhibition game for Sunday afternoon, May 5.

The manager reported that there are several new candidates trying out for the nine, but otherwise, the lineup practically is the same. He will be using the same three pitchers, Dale Wahlers, Menning and Christofferson. Those three flingers last season turned in consistently good performances.

Tentative Lineup
The rest of the lineup probably will show Cheslock in the left garden, Cash as receiver, Fahrrenkrug on second, Gartzke at third, Gulluckson in the center pasture, Haufe at right field, Gamney at short and Christofferson at second when he isn't hurrying.

The Merchants posted a fair record last season. During the first half of the schedule, the Neenah nine marked up five victories against three defeats, which was good enough for third place. During the second half, the Merchants dropped considerably, ending the term in fourth place deadlocked with Manitowish. Neenah won four games and lost three.

The squad will be sporting new jerseys when the season gets underway, Handler reported.

Free Enterprise In U. S. Menaced, Dr. Smith Charges

N.A.M. Speaker Talks at Joint Meeting of Service Clubs

Neenah—Charging that America's freedom is being attacked insidiously and effectively through assaults on free enterprise, Dr. C. Copeland Smith, Chicago, of the speakers division of the National Association of Manufacturers, stated in a talk at the joint meeting of Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs Thursday noon at the Valley Inn that "If Americans can be persuaded to let industry loose, I'm satisfied that it can solve all our problems."

Hitler and Mussolini found out that the quick way to kill freedom wasn't to kill freedom of speech but to kill freedom of enterprise. Freedom is the subject of attack here, not necessarily in the same way but as insidiously and effectively, Dr. Smith claimed.

Increase in taxes and governmental intervention in industry were blamed by the speaker for present conditions. "When industry, after having paid its taxes out of the gross profits, had enough left to purchase machinery and equipment, men of this nation were employed. But recently, that has been impossible," he said.

While discussing democracy, Dr. Smith said that there are 22 countries in the Americas which claim democracy but each one is totally different from the other. Hitler this year pointed at the Reichstag in a few days later, pointed to himself as exhibit A of what a democratic man is.

Prefers "Freedom"

The speaker said he preferred the word freedom to democracy because it needs no definition and is uniquely an American word. Freedom, he said, is like the atmosphere, a sort of ozone, for once you breathe it it gets you. It becomes the dynamic, propulsive power of life as an individual as well as a nation.

After comparing the difference between freedom in America and England, Dr. Smith said that one hour of work in an American factory will buy more of the same amount of time anywhere else in the world, including 13 times more than in Russia, nine times more than in Italy and four times more than in Germany.

Chamberlain's Popularity In England Drops in Recent Weeks, British Poll Reveals

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—The popularity of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England has declined among British voters in the last six weeks, according to a survey just completed by the British Institute of Public Opinion.

This organization, founded originally under the supervision of the American Institute of Public Opinion, has been conducting regular surveys without interference or censorship on the part of the government. Even when results have shown trends of public sentiment unfavorable to the government they have been published in London without restriction from the Ministry of Information.

Whereas Chamberlain was approved in February by 66 per cent of Britons expressing an opinion about him, today he is approved by 61 per cent, the survey shows.

There has been a steady decline in the Prime Minister's popularity since the outbreak of the war, according to British Institute figures. When the war began, nearly seven voters in every 10 (69 per cent) approved of him. However, the elderly British statesman is more popular today than he was just after Munich, when 57 per cent approved of him.

The recent trend has been as follows: "In general, do you approve or disapprove of Mr. Chamberlain as Prime Minister?"

THOSE EXPRESSING AN OPINION

	Approve	Disapprove
Dec., 1939	71%	29%
Jan., 1940	65%	35%
Feb.	66%	34%
Today	61%	39%

In the most recent survey an average of one voter in every 14 (7 per cent) expressed no opinion. Another recent British Institute survey indicates that the people of

VOTERS THINK ITALY WILL JOIN NAZIS

As signs multiply that Italy may be getting ready to join the European war, there is widespread speculation as to whether Mussolini will cast in his lot with the Axis or with Hitler. Although probably no one but Mussolini knows for sure, voters polled throughout the United States on the subject say that while they would like to see Italy join the Allies, less than majority think she will do so.

The survey, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion follows: "If Italy goes into the war, which side would you like to see her join?"

Prefer Italy to Join Allies 96%

Prefer Italy to Join Germany 4%

Approximately one person in six (17 per cent) expressed no preference.

"If Italy goes into the war, which side do you think she will join—Germany, or England and France?"

Germany 55%

Allies 45%

On this question, one-third (33 per cent) of those polled said they were undecided.

Great Britain would like to see Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, Leslie Hore-Belisha, Viscount Halifax and David Lloyd George serving with Chamberlain in a strong War Cabinet to push the war more vigorously.

This survey asked: "If a strong War Cabinet were formed for more active prosecution of the war, which five leaders would you like to see in it?"

Sixty-seven per cent named Churchill, 65 per cent Eden, 46 per cent Hore-Belisha, 34 per cent Lloyd Halifax and 29 per cent Lloyd George.

Of these men, Churchill and Halifax are the only ones now in the War Cabinet.

Appleton Tennis Team to Meet Shawano Indians on Saturday

APPLETON High school's tennis squad will journey to Shawano Saturday morning in an effort to avenge the 5-4 defeat suffered earlier in the season at the hands of the Indians.

Coch Edger Hagene will take Robert Bayley, William DeLong, Lloyd Gatzke, Nick Nickasch and a fifth member not yet selected. Hagene said William Morris, Alvin Blinder, Gunther Holtz, James Germonson and Lloyd Mueller are very nearly equally matched for the fifth position.

Number one man for the Shawano team is Billy Reed, the state champion. Other Shawano players are Bob Gillespie, Marlin Krenker, Charles Dilleit, Jim Donaldson, Harold Mehlberg, Bob Weber, Jack Anderson, Jack Grosskopf and George Wagner. Appleton will carry only five men on this trip since Shawano has only two courts. A large team would prolong the meet, Hagene states.

The match with Menasha on Tuesday afternoon on the Appleton courts is a toss-up, Hagene believes. Last year Appleton split with Menasha. This year Menasha also lost to Shawano, and no indication of the relative strength of the teams is apparent. Since Appleton has enough courts to run concurrent matches, eight singles and five doubles will be played in this meet.

'Best Field' in History of Drake Relays Assembles

Directors Expects New Records If Weather
Is Favorable*BY L. E. SKELEY

DIRECTOR MOINES, Iowa —(AP)—The "best field" in the 31-year history of the Drake relays assembled for action today while Director Franklin (Pitch) Johnson kept his fingers crossed — happy, but anxious.

Johnson was happy about the approximately 2,500 entrants, but he was "anxious" about the weather. Showers that fell yesterday left pools on the runways. The weatherman didn't help Johnson's spirits by predicting occasional rain today and showers tomorrow.

The sports carnival, opening today with an impressive program, including nine final events in the college and university sections, is Johnson's last before he assumes his new duties as Stanford university coach.

Expects New Records

It was Pitch's ambition to gather the best field since he took over the relays directorship in 1929. He feels he has done that by getting star athletes from 182 schools in the field and now it's up to the boys and the weather.

He's certain the athletes won't let him down. He expects a "few new records today."

For example, there's Ralph Schwarzkopf, the University of Michigan star, in the two-mile. The Western conference indoor and outdoor champion has his sights set on the 6:10 Drake record made by Greg Rice of Notre Dame last year.

New records also were anticipated in the sprint and distance medley relays. Oklahoma and Indiana were the favorites in the former and the hustling Hoosiers were picked to crack the distance medley mark. They bettered the world indoor mark with a 10:10.3 performance at the Butler relays.

Madison —(AP)—Ed Smith, Negro hurdler who is undefeated this season and holds the Big Ten indoor title, was unable to accompany university of Wisconsin trackmen when they left yesterday to compete in the Drake relays. He suffered a muscle injury in the final workout and Coach Tom Jones said he probably would be laid up for two or three weeks.

Artie Hofkins and Lefty Vander Zanden are probable mound choices for the Papermakers with Manager Wildenberg behind the plate. Vander Heiden will be on third with Buck Le May caving at second. Swen Bowman or Harold Van Dyke will show at first base. The short-stop berth will have to be filled with Bill Peetor out of the lineup this season. Kobs, Erbie Wildenberg and Lefty Wildenberg are listed for outfield duty.

Holdout Catcher Is*Sold to Boston Sox

St. Louis —(AP)—Joe Glenn, hold-out catcher of the St. Louis Browns, was sold yesterday to the Boston Red Sox.

The Browns' office, announcing the sale, said it was a straight cash deal but did not disclose the amount.

It was understood Glenn was offered a contract which would make him $10,000 for the season, provided he fulfilled certain conditions. He sent it back. When he failed to report at training camp within a reasonable time, this was slashed in half. Last year he reportedly earned $8,500.

With Coach Jimmy Conzelman to play professional football next season with the Chicago Cardinals of the National league.

Large Selection of Rods For the Fishermen's Party

A GOOD casting rod is an article that anyone who ever tossed a bait into the water appreciates no end. There'll be a lot of those people at the Appleton Post-Crescent's Fishermen's Party on Tuesday evening, May 7, at the Rio theater, and therefore we'll have a rather large selection of good rods.

One which hasn't been mentioned so far is an Oxford rod offered by the American Fork and Hoe company, Geneva, Ohio. You have to see it and handle it and whip it to know of its worth and beauty. It is finished in the most approved manner and the workmanship fairly shouts the class of the rod.

Drylite Casting Shirt
Draheim's Sporting Goods at Neenah is offering a new gift, one which any fellow who is active out of doors will appreciate. It is a Drylite Casting Shirt, one of the Raynstar articles manufactured by the United States Rubber company. It is adaptable for fishing, for playing golf, for camping, working out of doors in rainy weather, for sailing and for hunting.

The shirt is completely vulcanized to a single waterproof unit and is 100 per cent rainproof. It also is guaranteed to give service. Ferron Clothing store, on W. College avenue, is offering a sweater jacket. It is a dark grey with a lighter stripe, has elastic wrists and will be a great addition to someone's wardrobe as well as an article to have around on that next fishing trip.

Norwich Line
Norwich Line company, Norwich, New York, has forwarded three lines for the party. One is an E grade, 26-pound test fly line. It is 33 feet long and amber colored. The other two are 50-yard spools of Norwich's new Black Pearl casting line. It is 18-pound test which is recommended as the best grade for any reel.

The Norwich company also is offering with this line a "Fish of the World" stamp album. It is 44 pages of interesting, helpful data on 25 fresh and salt water fish. There is a stamp for each fish. The book also includes tips on casting and fishing by experts and champions, space for photographs of those big ones which didn't get away and in all makes a real fisherman's diary for your tackle box.

Marathon Bait company of Wausau has offered two of its best baits. One is a Skallywag spinner with a white tail and a weedless hook. The other is a Catwicker in a red and white pattern. This is a weighted lure for deep trolling and casting.

Pfueger Minnows
Six Pfueger Mustang Minnows have been offered by the Enterprise Manufacturing company, Akron, Ohio. The company manufactures many famous baits and reels.

The company offers some very good advice on how and where to cast artificial bait. Here it is:

Cast close up to the weeds, rushes, lily pads, stumps, brush, reefs and other likely places. A successful casting distance is from 50 to 60 feet. Retrieve your bait the instant it strikes the water, and keep it in action continuously. Reel back in slowly for bass and pike and considerably faster for muskellunge. Vary the speed according to the fish. The "over hand" cast is by far the best for all around results. Use the "side swipe" cast only when working under overhanging brush, and where the "over hand" cast can not be used.

Pen casting is desirable on shallow water, above weed beds, among lily pads or short open spaces of water. The fisherman allows the bait to rest on the water momentarily, taking up the slack line. A short quick jerk of the rod causes the minnow to pop—dive sharply and return to the surface. This, with the attendant swirl of the water caused by the action of the minnow, attracts the attention of fish that may be lying under lily pads the operation — pausing between "pops" until a strike is obtained, or he retrieves the bait for another cast. The action of the bait similar to an injured or distressed minnow, brings bass, pike, musky up from their hidden lairs to strike. This minnow is also an excellent lure for straight casting or trolling where it travels under the surface with a winging action, and unusual attraction.

Never cast a multiplying reel with a click on.

New London High Track Team Cops Triangular Meet

Nelson, Freiburger Score 14 Points Each for The Winners

NEW LONDON—New London High school tracksters swamped two rivals in a triangular meet here Thursday afternoon by taking nine first out of thirteen events and dominating most of the others. They scored 92 1/2 points to 53 1/2 for Waupaca and 42 for Menasha.

A new New London star was hailed in the person of Bob Nelson, stocky junior, who tied with Bernard Freiburger for scoring honors with 14 points. He took the 100-yard dash in record time of 10.3 seconds and heaved the discus to first place at 113 feet, 9 inches. It was the first time he had tried to throw the plate. He lost the 220-yard run to Tom Holly of Waupaca, who was his toughest rival.

Freiburger made a sweep of the high and low hurdles and bowed to Nelson in the discus throw.

Tom Holly was Waupaca's ace and scored 13 points for his team, taking the 220 yard and finishing second in the 100-yard dash and in the board jump.

Kenneth Ross took two firsts for New London, for 10 points. His mark of 19 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the broad jump trials stood as the best and he led the way in the half mile run.

Close Finish in Mile

A good 4:41.5 mile was turned in by Bill Schmidt with Marvin Sommers, his companion miler, pounding not more than three steps behind him at the finish.

The pole vault was dominated by the locals, Harold Pues, Dave Stern and Robert Seering grabbing the first three places.

A change in the New London relay team was necessitated to conform with a new ruling that any contestant placing in any other two running events is not eligible for the relay. Dave Stern, Clifford Schoenick, Harold Pues and Eddie Huettner ran the event.

Next Friday another 3-way meet will be held here with Manawa and Weyauwega competing. Wednesday a squad will go to Appleton to test the Terrors in a dual meet.

The summary:

120-yard high hurdles—Freiburger (NL), G. Smith (NL), Jenkins (NL), Freidland (M), Erickson (W). Time—16.9 seconds.

FOR FISHING FUN

Tips on Casting: 4

BY MILTON KRAFT
National All-Around Champion

Distance casting is the pride of the average fisherman but few can handle more than 40 feet of line. Tournament casters go well over 100 feet. Here Champion Milton Kraft shows the correct finish of a distance cast—the rod pointing directly to 3 on the clock dial.

Most fishermen are able to handle only 35 or 40 feet of line, but with practice they could easily work their range up to 60 feet or more.

By special study and practice, experienced tournament men can cast 100 feet or more with ease. In the distance fly event in tournaments the record cast is 183 feet.

In casting for distance start from the 4 o'clock position. Apply power to the rod upward to the 12 (vertical) position and then allow it to drift back to 11. Coming forward, apply increased power between the 11 and 3 o'clock positions, then let the rod drift down to 4 to start another backcast.

When you are getting the feel of your rod and line, look at an object 200 feet or more in front of you. You will see your line going away from you in a narrow loop. Release the line from your left hand and you will find the momentum will pull the coils of loose line from the ground or from your hand to give you an additional 20 or 25 feet.

The fisherman who has been using main strength and awkwardness will be surprised at the results he gets from orderly practice. He will develop a good sense of the rod's spring and of what his line is doing at each stage of the cast. It is important that the grip be not too tight.

Though all the practice, regardless of your immediate problem, there should be a constant and almost instinctive feeling for accuracy.

Tomorrow—Tournament Casting

Valley Leaguers to Gather at Menasha

Little Chute — The Fox River Valley league moguls will meet at the Menasha Falcons hall Tuesday, April 3, for the final meeting before the opening of the season. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock. The schedule has been released and umpires will be selected for the opening games. Eleven umpires comprise the staff.

Opening games of the season will have Kaukauna host to the Menasha Falcons, Kimberly at Neenah, Bub's Tavern of Appleton at Manitowish and Oshkosh at Appleton Athletics.

Plans for league dance also will be discussed. The league cleared a tidy sum last season at its dance at Rainbow Gardens and each club finished with a profit after league expenses were paid.

Wisconsin Tied For Baseball Lead

Takes on Iowa Sluggers in First of Two-Game Series

Chicago—(AP)—Wisconsin and Illinois, tied for the Big Ten conference baseball lead with three victories and one defeat apiece, step out today to further their particular causes.

The Badgers, second only to Iowa in team slugging thus far, take on the Hawkeyes at Madison in the first of a two-game series. Wisconsin owns a .237 team batting average for four games while Iowa, paced by its individual champion of last year, centerfielder Jim George, boasts a .285 mark in three games.

The Illini, who rank third in the slugging department with .217, play at Ohio State, which with Indiana, has had its first four games called off because of rain or cold. Illinois last week broke even with Iowa, winners of two games in three starts.

Today's schedule also has Michigan at Indiana and Purdue at Chicago. Minnesota and Northwestern have an open date in conference competition.

Frisch Asks Pittsburgh Fans to Give Rizzo Break

PITTSBURGH — (AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch thinks the fans aren't treating Johnny Rizzo right and he's out to do something about it.

The new Pirate skipper is sold on the 26-year-old fly chaser and sees possibilities of developing a great slugger if the customers will quit riding Johnny into the ground.

Rizzo amazed Frisch in spring training and the opening game at St. Louis, but he just couldn't get going before home fans no matter how hard he tried.

Rooters didn't like it just as last year when Johnny didn't do so good after leading the National's 1938 freshman wave by hitting homers in every city in the league and setting a new all-time record of 23 for total circuit clouts in one season by a Pittsburgh player.

Frisch, who's been through the baseball mill and knows what jeers from the stands will do to a player, benched Rizzo for a couple of days then directed an appeal to the fans through the newspapers.

"Rizzo means a lot to this team," he declared. "If he ever can get back into the stride he followed in 1938, the Pirates can go places."

"I had heard about the treatment Rizzo got from the fans last year. Maybe he deserved it and maybe he didn't. But I wish the customers would give the kid a chance this year because he has the qualities to become a great slugger and there aren't enough of those fellows around."

other era, but it was just as effective in the won and lost column. Diz got a bad start. He walked the first two batters he faced and made an error on the third to let in a run. Then he intentionally passed a third and another run scored on a fly.

Dizzy Comes Back

Manager Gabby Hartnett no doubt was disturbed and the fans were, too. But if Dean ever averaged no one knew it. He came back to pitch shutout ball for the next eight frames, striking out only one batter but allowing only one walk. He kept saying that "nothing ball" of his back and forth across the corners of the plate, curving it in and out and once in a while sand-wiching in a straight high one that would have been blindingly fast in that other day.

It worked, anyway, and in the meantime the Cubs crowded big Paul Derringer, ace of the Reds, for 11 hits. Coupled with three errors these were good for four runs and the ball game, dropping Cincinnati out of a tie for first place in the national league.

The Cubs scored with three runs in the third. With one out, Bill Herman walked and went to third on Augie Galan's single. Hank Ibaer scored a single, scoring Herman and putting Galan on third. Galan scored as Phil Nicholson grounded out. Phil Cavarretta singled to center, scoring Leiber, after which Todd singled and Bob Matick was tossed out by Bill Werber.

Dean Scores Run

The other Cub run was scored by Dean himself. He singled to open the sixth, was sacrificed to second and came home on Herman's safety.

Twice winner of the meet during the past three years, Coe is the team to beat, according to Relays Director Louis E. Means. Besides boasting a strong mile and two mile relay team, the Kohawks have many individual stars. Coached by F. S. Rittgers, the Coe team is strong in every event.

Coe's neighboring college, Grinnell, has won the relays once during the past three years and was runner up last year. Weak in the distance relays, Coach G. L. Duke is counting on his 440 and 880 yard relay teams to come through for certain. Beloit and Coe, both of whom have a talented array of sprinters, also have designs on first place honors in these events.

Highlights of this year's Beloit relays will be Chuck Fenske's try at a new world's record in the three quarter mile, and the special mile race sponsored by a Beloit newspaper. The special mile will see Gilbert Dodd, Ashland (Ohio) college star distance runner, Virgil Grace, understudy to Yankton's great Ralph Halla, and Bob Hartman, Beloit's Midwest Conference and state champion miler, battling it out for supremacy.

Buck Marrow Is Wild; Milwaukee Loses to Indians

Score Is 3 to 2; Each Team Connects for Seven Safeties

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP)—Indianapolis, with the help of a streak of wildness by Buck Marrow, Milwaukee's starting pitcher, won the opening game of the series from the Brewers yesterday, 3 to 2.

The Brewers scored a run in each of the first two innings, but then Lloyd Johnson, Indians' south-paw, settled down to a seven-hit performance. Only three men reached base against Johnson in the last seven rounds.

In the fourth, the Indians tied the score when Jess Newman doubled home Allen Hunt and Dee Moore, who had walked.

The winning run came across in the fifth on Milt Galatzer's safe bunt, his theft of second, a wild pitch by Marrow and a fielder's choice on Johnny Hill's grounder.

The Brewers turned in three doubles, the Indians two.

Game Will Climax Spring Drills for Viking Gridders

Squad Will be Divided Into Two Teams Saturday Afternoon

WITH the final game Saturday afternoon, Lawrence college's football team will complete its spring practice. Coach Bernie Heselton feels that the 3-week period has been very successful with each man having the opportunity of showing his stuff at various positions. Thirty-two grid-ders turned out for this training period and almost every man played two or more positions. The game Saturday afternoon at Whiting field will show the squad divided into two with the best men on team No. 1 and the others on team No. 2. Coach Heselton is doing this in order to award the fellows who have done the best and also to show the rest of the players how they rate below the first team. Team No. 2 will be given the benefit of a handicap over the other of one or two touchdowns.

Outstanding work by the veterans was turned in by Art Kaemmer, Kiel, during this session with his showing as the best passer on the squad plus his power drives from the fullback position. Leroy Lube-nov of Sheboygan did not play last season but is now back in uniform and showing himself to be a great asset to the '40 squad. Of the freshmen, Bill Crosssett, Racine, has been a surprise with his outstanding pass receiving plus offensive and defensive play. Bob Osen, DePere, has proven himself a strong contender for a backfield position in the fall. Leonard Liss, Milwaukee, hitting the scales at 210 pounds, has shown he will make a powerful running mate at tackle with Vince Jones, veteran 280 pound lineman. Other new men giving outstanding performances during the pre-season practice are Loren Smith, Madison, and Clyde "Dusty" Rhodes, Mooseheart, who is the smallest man on the squad yet bidding with the big boys for a half-back position.

Expect Armstrong To Flatten Junior

Boston —(AP)— According to those who back their fistful opinions with hard cash, the National Boxing association was guilty of over-em-phasis when it broadcast its decision that it would not recognize tonight's Henry Armstrong-Paul Junior bout as a welterweight championship affair if the latter won.

Few of those who wager on such events concede Junior, a 30-year-old veteran of 300 battles, the slightest chance to strip Armstrong of the last of the three world titles he has won during his sensational career. Although Armstrong is expected to weigh in around 141, only two pounds heavier than his Lewiston, Maine, rival, the Negro champion is a 3-1 shot to wind up their scheduled 15-round engagement with an early knockout.

Suggests Sports Aptitude Tests to Uncover Material

Professor Says Method Would Cure 'Recruiting' of Headaches

CHICAGO —(AP)— Sports aptitude tests for students were suggested today to college coaches as a cure for "recruiting" headaches.

The suggestion came from C. H. McCloy, research professor of an-thropometry and physical education at the University of Iowa, who declared such tests "may practically double the available promising material."

Prof. McCloy outlined his views in an address written for presentation before the annual convention of the American Association for health, physical education, and recreation.

The tests, he said, are "quite a bit of work, but so is recruiting. And testing doesn't cost as much money."

Pointing to other tests that uncover the aptitude of students in various fields for mathematics, verbal ability and professional subjects such as medicine and engineering, Prof. McCloy said it seemed to him that coaches likewise could profit from a testing program designed to discover individuals with capacities for sports.

"Probably every fairly large school has almost as many potentially good athletes for every sport who do not elect to try for the team as it has of those who will report to the coaches. Hence an adequate system of tests may practically double the available promising material."

TO OUR NEW READERS: JEAN BAPTISTE (BATEESE) THE GIANT FRENCH-CANADIAN LUMBER-JACK APPEARED SEVERAL YEARS AGO IN THE FAMOUS COLUMN OF NICK KENNY AND CHALLENGED PALOOKA TO FIGHT.

MA FOI! 'OO EEZ DEEZ PALOOKA? BATEESE MAK PEMMICAN OUT OF DEEZ PALOOKA.

THE GIANT WOODSMAN (A VERITABLE PAUL BUNYAN WHOSE STRENGTH BECAME A LEGEND) AND PALOOKA MET IN A CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH IN DETROIT.

PALOOKA SHE'S ONLY TAM MAN IN WHOLE WORLD BY GAR!

JOE KAYOED HIM AFTER A TERRIBLE BATTLE, AND WON THE UNYVING FRIENDSHIP OF THE SIMPLE-HEARTED CHILDLIKE GIANT.

JOE PALOOKA

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER SNAKE BITES

If you go through woods, or travel about mountains where there is danger of meeting rattlesnakes, take special care! About 75 per cent of all bites of poisonous snakes are on the legs, chiefly below the knee.

Rubber bulb which can be used in treating bite of a poisonous snake.

Leggings and high-topped shoes will help to cut down the danger of being bitten. If a snake tries to bite, its teeth may not cut through to the flesh. Even a pair of overalls, hanging well down over the ankles, may save one who steps into danger, of course they are not a certain guard.

It seems clear that snakes do not "chase" people, though they may bite when someone comes close to them. There is no snake which can crawl as fast as a man can run.

About one-fifth of the bites of poisonous snakes are on the hands or arms. If you lie down to rest in "the wilds," don't lie on a snake, and don't stretch out your hands where a snake may lie in wait.

The bite of a rattlesnake is deadly. If the poison fangs go into a vein or artery, it means almost sure death in a few minutes. Happily, a snake does not often bite into a vein or artery.

If possible a doctor should be called to help anyone bitten by a rattler or water moccasin. Before he arrives a necktie or handkerchief should be tied around the leg or arm, above the bite. It should be tight enough to shut off flow of blood in veins, but not tight enough to close arteries. It should be loosened once in 20 minutes, for a minute, then tightened again.

The victim is advised to lie still while under treatment. Some way of drawing the poison from the wound should be found. One thing made for this purpose is a rubber bulb on a small glass funnel. When the bulb is pressed, it draws out blood with poison in it.

Red Cross experts advise a person to cut the flesh about the fang marks, so blood will flow freely. Such cutting should be done with a blade which has been sterilized by a match flame, or by rubbing with alcohol. The cut should be about an eighth of an inch deep, or just a bit more. Care must be taken not to cut a vein.

That may seem like "rough treatment," but it is better than to let a person die from the bite of a poisonous snake.

Trade Pacts After 7 Months of Discussions

Berne—(7)—After seven months of negotiations, economic agreements have been signed between the allied powers and Switzerland under which Switzerland may obtain supplies for her own use in return for guarantees that they will not go to Germany.

The accord with France was signed at Paris and that with Great Britain at Berne—both yesterday.

The negotiations had been prolonged on one hand by Swiss determination to retain economic independence and neutrality des-the allied blockade of Germany by force on the other hand, by the allied effort to obtain maximum guarantees that the Swiss would not support Germany.

Switzerland already has an important trade treaty with Germany negotiated several years before war began and renewable every months. It was prolonged two months ago.

Orange Team Wins Track Meet; Eight Marks are Broken

Broad and High Jump, Pole Vault, Relay Records Fall

Kaukauna — Lee Cooper's Orange team won over Ralph Doering's Blacks, 64 to 44, as the annual intra-school track meet was concluded yesterday. Eighty all-time records in this annual meet preparatory to the opening of the regular season were broken.

Monday four records were shattered. Yesterday Calvin Spice broadjumped 19 feet, 9 1/2 inches, breaking the mark of 19 feet, 5 inches, held jointly by Bill Peterson and Andy Mettner. Bill Alger high jumped 5 feet, 4 inches, topping Ross Farwell's 5 feet, 3 inches, which had stood for ten years.
